Retailers Ask Retention Of War Time

SEND MESSAGE TO GOVERNOR CITING STAND

Cite Emergency Nature of Shift Set Up By U. S., Favor Leaving It in Effect.

MAYOR TOLD OF MOVE

Locke Also Moves To Call For Trend of Opinion in City on Clock Change.

The Mansfield Retail Merchants association joined other organizations in Ohio cities today in recommending that the state retain war time.

Meeting this morning in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, the association's board of directors passed a resolution which said that "Inasmuch as our federal government has asked the country to accept war time as an emergency war measure and we have adjusted ourselves to that time, our association recommends that the war time be continued."

A copy of the resolution, signed by Merle C. Pecht, president of the retailers, was wired immediately to Gov. John W. Bricker. The association's board of directors planned to inform Mayor W. J. Locke of the action today.

The directors pointed out that they were not opposing the shift to "slow time" but were registering their opinion with Gov. Bricker who will soon act on the time measure enacted by the Ohio legislature.

The merchants' action is one of the first open expressions of opinion on the time change by any group or organization in Mansfield.

In a move to sample public opinion on the time change, Mayor W. J. Locke yesterday asked that Kiwanis club members write in their opinions of the proposed change. The announcement was made to club members by Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler, club president.

Because his office was closed today in observance of Lincoln's birthday, the mayor could not be reached for information about response to his request.

With opposition to the time shift gaining momentum today in the state's larger cities, some members of the Ohio legislature feared they had not given sufficient consideration to the effect of the time change bill before passing it, dispatches from Columbus said.

A number of cities, including Columbus, Akron, Barberton, Steubenville, Springfield, and Alliance, have indicated they would continue to function on war time regardless of what the state does. Pressure for the time change has been exerted largely by farm communities and small towns where pupils must travel to school buses before dawn and where farmers have had difficulty adapting their working schedule to a faster time.

SPEAKS TONIGHT

President to Discuss War and Home Front at 9:30.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt will talk to the nation by radio tonight for the first time since he returned Jan. 31 from a three-week trip to Casablanca and his historic "unconditional surrender" conferences with Prime Minister Churchill.

He chose Lincoln's birthday for the first of two broadcasts on foreign and domestic affairs. The second will come Feb. 22 when he addresses Washington birthday dinners to be held in 44 states to climax a fund-raising drive by the Democratic national committee. Tonight's speech will begin at 9:30 p. m., Eastern war time, and will be about 20 minutes in length. White House officials said a wide range of foreign and "home front" developments would be covered.

The order to business and industry to increase the work week to 48 hours in labor shortage areas is expected to receive some attention in the president's discussion of "home front" problems.

Some of War's Greatest Pictures Come Out of Russia

Taken from what has been called "the greatest documentary film of the war"—the March of Time's "One Day of War"—these pictures were made during a single day of fighting on the far-flung Russian front. To obtain them, 160 soldier-cameramen of the Red army were assigned to film the action. That they succeeded, these battle pictures are the evidence. That the assignment was no cinch is attested by the fact that of the 160 who went forth on the field of battle that day, 30 were dead before the sun sank behind the cold Russian steppes. But those who survived brought back a film record indicating that the Russians are fighting for keeps, and which explains to the world, much better than the official communiques, why Hitler's armies have been unable to hold their positions against the Red winter offensive. Her daring action covered by a Red sharpshooter, background, Russian army nurse Sacha Sekolava (top left) has brought a wounded Russian to the shelter of a trench while under heavy Nazi fire. Note that she has also salvaged the fighter's sub-machine gun. At lower left, Russian infantrymen pour from a large troop-carrying tank as an accompanying tank blasts away at Nazi forces before them. Under the cover of their tank guns, the Red army troops race forward with rifles and machine guns to drive the entrenched Germans back. By such daring tactics, the Soviet army is cutting Hitler's once victorious hordes to pieces. Tragedy hits hard at a mother (right) living in recently-besieged Leningrad. Nazi bombers trying to crack the Soviet morale rained bombs on the city.

Chase Italians From Roads In North Sector

Fighters Advance In Mateur Area Near Axis' Last Naval Base In Africa While Eighth Army Prods Forces Guarding Rommel's Retreat.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Istanbul said today that the Germans had ordered partial evacuation of civilians from Salonika, Greece. (Recent reports have said that the Germans were fortifying the coast around Salonika in fear of an Allied invasion.)

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON
(By United Press)

LONDON—Allied Commandos and infantry were reported to have driven Axis troops back near Bizerte naval base today, while the Eighth army, pushing ahead in lower Tunisia, neared the town of Ben Gardane, 20 miles from the frontier.

Fighting flared up in the long quiet northern sector of Tunisia when a British Midlands battalion (1,000 men) advanced from the south and British and French Commandos advanced from the west to sweep Axis forces from three or four strong points between the road west of Mateur and the sea. Mateur is 18 miles southwest of Bizerte, the only naval base the Axis has in Africa.

Ward Price, the London Daily Mail's correspondent, said each strong point was held by a garrison of about 100 Italian Bersaglieri.

At dawn yesterday, the advancing troops located the strong points and signaled to artillery in the rear. Twenty-five pounders and medium artillery opened up to smash the points.

The advancing Allies also were reported to have located the headquarters of an Italian company and forced the Italians to fall back a mile.

The Germans acknowledged the attack in a broadcast by radio Vichy, but claimed, as usual, that the Allies had been repulsed.

Today's Allied headquarters communique reported that rain and snow were hampering ground operations on most of the Tunisian front. Light bombers, however, carried out a raid on Sened, 22 miles northwest of Maknassy.

The Eighth army was in contact with the Afrika Korps east of Ben Gardane two days ago, but today's Middle Eastern command communique indicated that storms again were making action almost impossible.

The communique said there was nothing except patrol activity yesterday, and "severe storms" hampered air operations day and night. In the only offensive air action reported by the Middle Eastern command, Allied fighter planes sank an enemy seaplane at anchor off the south coast of Sicily.

Dispatches from Algiers, via Madrid, said rear guards of the

'BEARHUG': Russians Squeeze Nazi Army In Key Donets Basin

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—Four Russian columns today drove on Kharkov, now within range of artillery, and the Red army was squeezing the Germans into a small and perilous triangle northeast of Rostov.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Breaking fierce resistance and smashing into deep German defenses and ranks of reserves, the Red army today had stretched two strong arms around the vital Nazi-held Donets basin in southern Russia and extended the threat to Kharkov, capital of the Ukraine, the Russians reported.

The longest arm clamped about the Donets coal country stretches east to west across the top of the basin, 200 miles from positions just east of Kamensk to Lozovaya, in the Ukraine on the Kharkov-Crimea railway.

The other arm reaches north and south from positions east of Kamensk to Melikhovsk, on the northern bank of the Don river only 21 miles northeast of Novocherkassk.

Gen. N. F. Vatutin's army thus has driven down toward Rostov through a corridor which provides him strong positions from which to move westward against the Donets basin and to hit at Rostov from its southern tip at Melikhovsk.

In taking Bogurayev the Russians seized the last remaining miles of the Likhaya-Stalingrad railway and at Kerchik the Soviet troops were just 19 miles east of Shakhty, an important city between Kamensk and Rostov.

Kharkov, principal objective of the Red army in the Ukraine, was

TWO MORE FROM AREA ARE LOST

Tiro Soldier Killed in Action; Ashland Pilot, Brother of Mansfielder, Missing.

Two Mansfield area soldiers, one the brother of Mrs. C. F. Sheriff of Mansfield, today were reported killed or missing in action in the South Pacific.

Pfc. Bruce Beighey, 25, of Tiro, was killed Jan. 20, the War department informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Beighey, of Tiro.

In Mansfield, Mrs. Sheriff, wife of the pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, learned that her brother, Lieut. William Norton, 27, of Ashland, has been missing in the South Pacific since Jan. 15.

A pilot with the army air forces, he has seen nearly a year of action in the Australia and New Guinea war zones.

Lieut. Norton, former employe of the F. E. Myers Brothers company in Ashland, frequently visited in Mansfield. He had been in the army two years. His wife, formerly of Mifflin, is employed

RECOVER BODIES

Rescuers Take Six From Waters of Columbia River.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—With six bodies already recovered from the flood-swollen waters of the Columbia river, divers and deputy sheriffs today searched for four other persons believed drowned when the tugboat May capsized while carrying a load of shipyard workers from the Oregon shore to Vancouver, Wash.

Of the estimated 19 aboard, nine others, including four women, were rescued.

Bricker Builds Surplus by Cornering Sales Tax Funds

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth and last of a series of articles on the cost of government in Ohio.

One of the messages of Governor John W. Bricker to the state legislature was considered a keynote for the governor's presidential (1944) aspirations.

It made good reading. It was sound. It will even sound well if it is here repeated.

The governor said:

"There are those in government today, greedy for power, who would destroy state and local government. They have set up boards, bureaus and commissions with arbitrary authority to dominate our daily lives. We recognize that there is abroad today the desire for centralizing power and socializing government which knows no limits and seeks to become masters of all. We can here prove to the world that local government is more than a name and that it is a living force among free men and women."

No one will argue with either the eloquence or the truth of that statement.

But Gov. Bricker turned out to be a better orator than an estimater of income which, in this case, was the amount of money that was expected to come into the state coffers from taxation.

Because the governor predicted for 1941 that the state would have a surplus, above his bud-

UNDER KNIFE

M'Gregor Operated on in Capital; Condition Good.

Mansfield friends of Representative J. Harry McGregor, Ohio's 17th district member of congress, were advised today that his condition is satisfactory following an abdominal operation in Naval hospital at Washington yesterday.

Naval surgeons said the Ohio congressman, who was stricken in his office last Saturday and removed to the hospital, will be required to remain in the hospital several weeks.

Representative Frederick C. Smith, a Marion physician before entering congress, was present during yesterday's surgery, performed by Captain Horace R. Boone.

McGregor, re-elected last November in a Republican landslide in the 17th district, lives in West Lafayette.

CONDUCTORETTES

Cleveland To 'Man' Its Street Cars With Women.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Women soon will operate some of Cleveland's street cars and buses.

Walter J. McCarter, general manager of the Cleveland Transit system, announced today the city-owned lines had decided to employ conductorettes and motorwomen without waiting for the Ohio legislature to relax restrictions on women's working hours.

NEED MORE MEN

Air Depot Work To Be Stepped Up, Captain Says.

Letting of contracts next Monday for the construction of buildings and utilities at the site of the army air force supply depot north of Shelby will bring an increased demand for carpenters, plumbers, painters, and other skilled laborers, Capt. Glen E. Shaw, chief of the engineers' corps, said today.

Workers on the project now are mostly machine operators and unskilled laborers, Capt. Shaw said.

Meanwhile, the administrative offices for the army project had been moved today from the Shelby postoffice to the site of the $3,000,000 project.

It is expected that about 40 trailers will be needed to house workers at the big project when work on buildings gets under way.

'MORE RATIONS,' NELSON WARNS

Declares Many Non-War Firms To Be Hit By Gigantic Arms Program.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Congress had a blunt warning from Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board today that $80,000,000,000 worth of guns, planes, tanks and ships cannot be produced this year without widespread business casualties in non-essential industries, which will lead to further rationing.

Nelson was disclosed to have told the senate military committee in a closed hearing on manpower needs that the necessity of funneling a net of 1,800,000 additional workers into the munitions plans will have serious repercussions on the home front.

The contraction of manpower in less essential industries and prospective increase of 4,300,000 in the armed forces may be

Launch Move to Round Up Games For Fighting Men

Richland county's 53 Junior Red Cross Councils representing more than 12,000 boys and girls of school age today launched a campaign to collect games of all kinds for the wounded men of World War II now convalescing in army and navy hospitals in the United States.

Collections will be handled through the schools in Mansfield, Shelby and all outlying areas with the procedure of obtaining donations left to each participating council in the school.

New games or used games still in good condition will be accepted, according to Mrs. W. J. Bishop, county Junior Red Cross chairman. They include a wide variety such as playing cards, chess

U. S. Puts O. K. on Post-War Improvement of Routes 30, 42

Mansfield and Richland county appeared assured today of more than a half million dollars in post-war road projects as a result of approval by the federal public roads administration of state highway department programs designed to "take up the employment slack after victory."

Hal G. Sours, highway director, was advised yesterday that Ohio's $100,000,000 construction setup had won the preliminary endorsement of federal highway officials at Washington.

The government agency, Sours said today, looks with favor on seven proposed projects which include U. S. Route 42 and U. S. Route 30 junction elimination just east of Mansfield or immediately within the city limits.

In November Vance Grimes, division highway engineer, announced at Ashland that the

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy reported today Japanese positions at Munda and Kilombangra had been bombed Thursday and large fires started in the target areas.

(By Associated Press)

American bombers and torpedo planes were officially credited today with sinking three Japanese destroyers and crippling at least four others in a double-barreled attack on enemy warships desperately attempting to evacuate their troops from Guadalcanal the first week in February.

Delayed dispatches from the prize island, now completely in American hands after annihilation of a 15,000-man Japanese army, said U. S. planes first attacked 20 destroyers of the Japanese "escape flotilla" near New Georgia island, Feb. 4.

American dive-bombers scored three direct hits on one destroyer, sinking it in three minutes, and damaged two other destroyers. Seventeen Japanese Zero fighters, attempting to screen the warships, were shot down, against 10 American planes listed as missing.

Dispatches said the rest of the Japanese destroyers steamed on toward Guadalcanal and were believed to have evacuated 1,000 officers and technical personnel under cover of pre-dawn darkness off Cape Esperance.

Once again, U. S. airmen took up the assault, sinking two destroyers and damaging perhaps three or four others.

Estimates of Japanese losses in the six-months' campaign continued to vary, ranging from 20,000

"Let Us Make Your House a Home"

From the Past . . . He Inspires the Hope for a Brighter Future

Many decades before ranting fascist fiends plunged a world into war . . . a quiet man, an humble American made his offering to Victory. Here in the land of opportunity he was privileged to enjoy the free thought and action that enabled him to fulfill his ambition to harness electrical power for the ultimate enlightenment of all the world. To serve . . . not to subjugate was his truly American aim. Today in our hour of need, the inventions his genius made possible work for Victory. The lines of communication that link our far flung armed forces into one Axis-choking fighting force we largely owe to Thomas Alva Edison, father of every great electrical invention that has been or ever will be invented! The power that operates the machinery in our record-breaking war production plants is the outcome of the experiments he worked over so long ago. The power plants that once created light and helped build modern industry are engaged in making the weapons America needs to preserve the freedom that nurtures genius. Our greatest thanks to Thomas Alva Edison, American, can best be rendered in the blood, sweat and tears of a working . . . fighting . . . bond-buying generation. For through these efforts, we speak our thanks to the man who made possible the inventions that helped banish ignorance and eliminate drudgery from this world.

Plants that once made refrigerators . . . irons . . . toasters and other electric servants are now engaged in making the parts that go into our tanks and planes and ships. Each worker whose factory flies the Army-Navy "E" flag for efficiency . . . whose lapel boasts the "E" pin . . . and every patriot who puts 10% of his pay into War Bonds is helping bring back the time when electrical appliances will return to a peace-time market. The War Bonds you buy today will help pay for those things you'll need after we finish this bigger job. When Victory flashes across the heavens and the lights of the world go on again . . . you'll be buying newer and better appliances made by the plants now fighting for your right to enjoy them. The electrical appliances you own today are all there'll be until Victory . . . so keep 'em working and in good repair!

NEW YORK — For several nutes before a sleeping person fts position, his heart beat gets ter. In the last minute before movement his heart speeds up y sharply.

In the minute after the movent, the heart drops down again its sleeping rate of beating. d then for a couple more min-s the heart slows ever more if taking a rest from the effort moving the sleeper.

These observations are report- in Science by M. M. Jackson the U. S. Naval Training sta-n, Newport, R I. They were de with an electrical instru-nt whose presence did not dis-b the sleeper.

The speed-up of the heart its is attributed to two theo-s, one that sleep in one posi-n has interfered with circu-on of blood, producing conges-n, an dthe other to an over-ting of some portion of the n.

ackson says the heart action evidence in favor of the theory t interference with circulation the cause of a sleeper's move-nts.

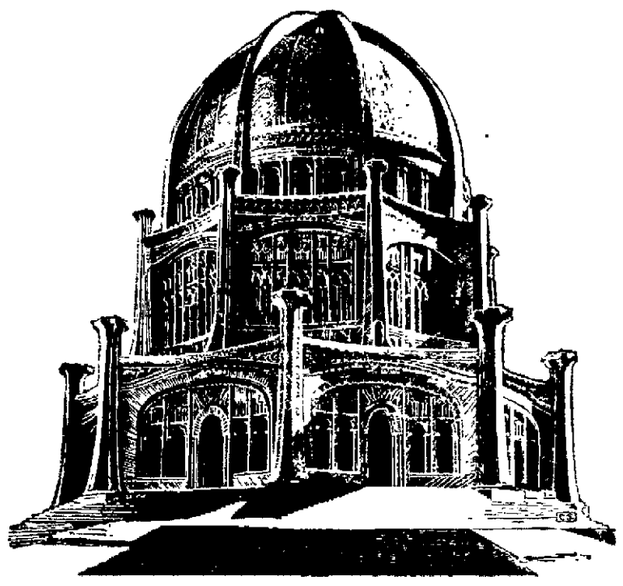
THE BAHA'I TEMPLE

House of Worship of a World Faith



Central Shrine and House of Worship of The Followers of Baha'u'llah In North America

The construction of this spiritual edifice has been made possible by the voluntary contributions given by Baha'is of Europe, Asia and Africa, Australia and New Zealand, as well as of the United States, Canada and South America. The undertaking has been a WORLD PROJECT when one realizes that the Baha'i community of East and West is representative, in the racial and religious background of its members, of the diverse families of mankind.

The Baha'i Faith offers to the world an all-inclusive universal spiritual teaching. Its Author and Founder was Baha'u'llah (meaning Glory of God), whom the Baha'is believe is the New Prophet for this age, the One whose coming was foretold by all previous prophets.

Some of the Teachings revealed by the Baha'u'llah, for the inspiration and guidance of humanity in this age, are summarized as follows:

Unfettered search after truth, and the abandonment of all prejudice.
The Oneness of Mankind: all are "leaves of one tree, flowers in one garden."
Religion must be a cause of love and harmony, else it is no religion.
All religions are one in their fundamental principles
Religion must go hand-in-hand with science. Faith and reason must be in full accord.

The adoption of an International Secondary Language which shall be taught in all the schools of the world.

Compulsory education—especially for girls, who will be the mothers and the first educators of the next generation.

Equal opportunities of development and equal rights and privileges for both sexes.

Universal Peace: The establishment of International Arbitration and an International Parliament (World Federation).

These teachings were given to the world by Baha'u'llah 75 years ago.

For further information regarding the Baha'i Faith or place of meeting in Mansfield, call 1894-4 or 6042-7. Baha'i books are available at the Public Library.

THEATERS

Oriental Spectacle.

"Arabian Nights," Universal's lavish technicolor production will spread Oriental splendor across the Ohio screen starting Saturday. Dealing with the romantic adventures of Scheherazade, an exotic dancer of Bagdad, the picture presents a panorama of desert warfare and slave conquest. Maria Montez, glamorous Latin star, appears as Scheherazade while Jon Hall and Leif Erikson portray the brothers who fall under her spell. Sabu also has a leading role and the cast includes Billy Gilbert and Shemp Howard.

Family Story.

The Hardy family gets together again, this time to send Andy off to college, in Mickey Rooney's new starring feature, "Andy Hardy's Double Life," opening Saturday at the Madison. But before he reaches the campus, however, the son and heir of the Hardys finds himself in all kinds of predicaments. Esther Williams plays the new girl in Andy's life in this picture and the cast includes William Lundigan, Fay Holden and Lewis Stone as the judge. Another "Lone Wolf" story is unfolded in "One Dangerous Night," the co-feature.

Western Drama.

"Dawn on the Great Divide," Buck Jones' starring picture, tops the bill at the Park. "The London Blackout Murders," the co-attraction has John Abbott, Mary McLeod and Louis Borell.

Aerial Thriller.

Berlin is bombed in "Flying Fortress," opening a three-day run at the Ritz Saturday. Richard Greene and Carla Lehmann are co-starred in this picture showing American eagles dropping two-ton "block busters" on German objectives. Greene has the role of a reckless American flyer in the Atlantic Ferry Command who joins up with the RAF for combat service. "Springtime in the Rockies," the co-film is a technicolor production with Betty Grable, John Payne and Carmen Miranda.

Jungle Picture.

The Majestic opens Sunday with a special jungle romance, "Pituri," which will show for three days. Taking its name from a drug in which the early black men dealt the picture traces the adventures of a young authoress who falls in the clutches of the white chief of a black tribe. Tribal scenes fill the picture and the production is featured by a series of tribal dances.

LARAMIE, Wyo. —(AP)— The way Glenn Bennion tells it, "it was a bit of a blow."

The wind was raging and Bennion's five gallon hat blew away. A week later he received a package from Ted Samuel of Kimball, Neb. His hat was in it.

Bennion's name and address was stamped in the band of the hat and his only explanation is that it must have blown all the way across the state of Wyoming before it came to rest in Kimball.

N THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

SHINGTON--Prohibition was different. We can't patronize the black market in meat with clear conscience that we used to have when frank bootleg liquor.

early everybody I knew bought liquor from tlegger. Congressmen and senators voted dry drank until it was running out of their ears. only people I ever knew in prohibition days who didn't drink were Wayne B. Wheeler and a few who refused for physical reasons, or because they suspected that what the host might be serving was not sheepdip, which they could take, but wood alcohol, which they knew was bad for them.

Clapper

But those were the dear, dead days. As James F. Byrnes said in his inflation broadcast, the man who helped the bootlegger in prohibition days hurt only lf. The woman who today encourages a nant to bootleg food is hurting her loved ones, ountry and herself.

r propaganda reasons, no doubt, Mr Byrnes some of the talk about black markets is erated But department of agriculture offiand OPA officials seem plenty worried about rom reports that come in to them it looks people in some areas are turning scofflaw holesale. The government faces a terrific cement problem. Price ceilings on meat have sed in some places It is a hopeless enforceproblem unless we snap out of that rosy hat this is prohibition all over again and it's of fun to have a bootlegger.

e Office of Price Administration can't hire h enforcement agents to break up the black market in meat. If the retailers and the public do not take the meat shortage seriously enough not to cheat on it, then the whole business is going to collapse.

Mr. Byrnes says the black markets must be broken up and that all food prices must be brought under control. The plain common sense of that is obvious. Yet gangsters are rushing into the black meat trade. One in the east confessed that until now he hadn't made a thousand dollars a week since prohibition was repealed.

A survey was made in one Ohio area. In a 75-mile radius it was found that three packing houses were feeding the black market. Forty retailers who previously had killed some meat of their own were killing three times their 1941 slaughter. Fifteen retailers had taken up butchering. All of that was black-market business, uninspected for sanitary protection, and sold at black-market prices that damaged legitimate business and interfered with effort to keep down the cost of living.

That will bring general inflation, general breakdown in all economic order. For we are in a situation where vast amounts of food and clothing are taken out of normal markets for the army and for our allies. Only by rationing can everybody be sure of getting some of these short supplies.

Rationing is the poor man's best friend. It protects him from the chiseler. Rationing and authorized prices protect the average family from war profiteering, from gouging, from hogging. When we are allowed now to market legitimately only 70 per cent of the meat marketed in 1941, there is a natural pressure favoring a black market.

The chief protection against the black market is the good faith of the average person, his willingness to co-operate to keep down confusion and grumbling on the home front. Beyond that, retailers can help the governments and the public by refusing to engage in black-market operations.

AIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

SHINGTON- To all American workers who have been robbed of any portion of their pay y dirty union parasites as the price of admisto work on any government project but were dmitted to union membership, eetings:

you will collect your receipts for the money ndered under this evil shakedown, practiced mainly by construction unions of the American Federation of Labor and send them to Tom C. Clark, chief of the war frauds unit, department of justice, Washington, accompanied in each case by an explanatory letter, preferably brief it may be your satisfaction to see such union vermin punished by large fines or sent to prison or both.

Pegler

Whether you worked, whether on a cantonment in Massachusetts an air field in Texas, a id in California or a pipeline across Illinois were forced to pay graft to any such thieves threats of dismissal, and provided you were imited to full membership in the local union ave been robbed within the present meaning anti-kickback law and the penalty may be as high as $10,000 and five years in prison eady, four such crooks have been caught in y, N. Y., and fined $10,000 each. They are cGraws, Thomas F. and John, father and son, e J. Mannl and Jacob Betar, officers of Local the International Union of Operating Engiand intimate professional and social colis of Rum-Dum Joe Fay, an international vice ent of this corrupt organization.

eir racket was to shake down American rs on the Voorheesville regulation station, a roject, for $2 a day They extorted about 0 on this job alone between August, 1941, ebruary 1942, were indicted in the U. S. t court last June and pleaded guilty to conv under the anti-kickback law. They did not put up a contest ereupon William E Maloney, of Chicago, the ational president of the racket, announced hey would be suspended from office in their If they were suspended, it certainly is mighty curious that the same Tom McGraw and the same Mannl and James McDonald and Augustus Martin Shock were indicted as late as last Nov. 25 for operating a similar shakedown in the name of the same local on another government job in the same vicinity, known as the Scotia Naval Supply depot, from June to November last year.

In this time they are alleged to have extorted about $2,000 at the rate of $2.50 a week from 50 workers. This indictment has not yet been tried. If McGraw and Mannl were suspended from office, they nevertheless continued to sell work permits in the name of the local on this other job and moreover, there are reports now under investigation that the workers in that jurisdiction have been further shaken down for money to pay the four $10,000 fines assessed in the Voorheesville case.

There are several other such indictments pending, including one against some of the brothers of the common laborers' union.

The anti-kickback law was dusted off by poor old Thurman Arnold of the anti-trust division after he had lost two contests in the supreme court under the anti-trust and anti-racketeering laws. Poor old Thurman became the Joe Grimm of the department of justice. He was always on the floor, spitting out teeth and phoning home afterward to say, "I lose again, mamma."

Two years ago, Mathias Correa the U. S. district attorney in the southern district of New York told me the anti-kickback law wouldn't apply to kickbacks extorted by unioneers, but Mr. Arnold got desperate and finally authorized Mr. Clark to see what he could do with it.

Up to now, we can't be positive that it will work because you know how this supreme court stands on union racketeering since that opinion of Justice Byrnes vindicating highway robbery by unioneers even though they had criminal records. We can't be positive, because the McGraws and Mannl and Betar in the Albany case refused to carry the question up to the supreme court.

But so far everything is all right and if you have been robbed of your pay under the corrupt permit-system practiced by so many AFL unions, send your receipts to Clark with a letter explaining just what happened and he will turn the individual cases over to the FBI for verification.

HOUSE LEADERS BURN FINGERS IN 'LAW RUSH'

Representatives Knock Out Emergency Clause in Auto Sticker Measure.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — House leaders, their fingers burned in an admittedly ill-advised attempt to rush passage of emergency legislation under suspension of rules, today promised to stay within the rules in attempts to speed up the state's legislative mill.

The representatives rebuked their leaders yesterday by knocking out the emergency clause of legislation authorizing use of windshield stickers to license motor vehicles.

The bill was brought before the house under suspension of rules at the request of Motor Vehicle Registrar Cylon W. Wallace, according to Speaker William M. McCulloch, Miami. The purpose, McCulloch said, was to rush passage of the measure so arrangements for distribution of the new sticker licenses might be completed by March 1.

The bill had passed the senate without opposition Monday, and passed the house 85 to 22, but the emergency clause, requiring 92 votes for two-thirds majority, received only 87 votes with 20 opposed.

The legislation as it stood in the house today would not become effective for 90 days after enactment.

McCulloch admitted the attempt to suspend rules so the bill might be considered before its place on the calendar was ill-advised.

Rep. A. Lee Fair, D., Holmes, discussing reports the new stickers would bear the name of Governor Bricker, asked if the legislation contained "a hidden ball trick to further possible future campaigns of the governor."

Rep. C. William O'Neill, R., Washington, majority "whip," assured reconsideration of the vote on the emergency clause Monday night by switching his vote to the opposition before the vote was announced. Motion for reconsideration of a vote must come from a member who voted with the prevailing side.

Committee chairmen responded to appeals for faster action on legislation in both houses with a heavy schedule of hearings next week.

Rep Paul H. Ballard, R., Jackson, chairman of the house finance committee, announced the first hearing on the biennial appropriation bill next Monday afternoon.

WOMEN MOCK LURKING DEATH

Workers Handle Dangerous Explosives Nonchalantly at Ravenna Plant.

(By Associated Press)

RAVENNA — Mocking possible death, women have become the backbone of the leading lines at the Ravenna ordnance plants, packing destruction for the Axis into shells and block buster bombs turned out by the trainload daily.

Housewives farm girls erstwhile stenographers even a grandmother smilingly handle deadly explosives in plants spaced nearly a mile apart and swept and dusted constantly as a safety measure.

Women ordnance workers comprise more than 60 per cent of the production force, army ordnance officers revealed today during a war department inspection tour of the arsenal conducted for newsmen. Total employment, including administrative personnel and guards, exceeds 10,000.

The women roll 2,000-pound bombs around the paint room as nonchalantly as if they were beer barrels. One of these bombs, six feet long, would tear a hole 20 feet deep and kill everything within a 600-foot area if exploded.

The one-ton load of death is filled with TNT, first steamheated into liquid form and then poured into the bomb. As the explosive crystallizes, it looks like maple sugar, and must be tamped down cautiously in the bomb to eliminate cavities or pockets which could cause premature explosion.

Why do women take such jobs?

"We feel we're doing something really important in the war this way," said one.

The one-ton bombs are only a sample of what the Ravenna plant is equipped to turn out. It has 1,000-pounders in its storage igloos and Col. J. K. Clement of the ordnance department commanding officer, said the arsenal could load double this size."

GOP LEADER DIES

Up and Down THE STREET

There's more than the usual amount of significance attached to the Valentine box at Country Day school this year. The children are applying some of the information concerning the receipt and dispatch of mail which they obtained recently through a visit to the Mansfield postoffice. They have set up little "postoffices" in the lower grade rooms to handle the annual exchange of Valentines and each student has also made a postoffice box to complete the idea.

There are honest people in Mansfield even when it comes to having money fall on the sidewalk right in front of them, according to Mrs. Paul Lee, Fourth avenue. The other day she was taking some Sunday school money from St. Paul's Lutheran church to a downtown bank and having no other container had placed the coins in a paper sack. The bottom of the sack tore, scattering money over the sidewalk. Men, women and children helped her and when she finally got all the coins collected she found only seven cents missing.

Where there's smoke there's not always fire—at least not a big one as Miss Mabel Selfe, director of nurses at the General hospital, learned today. Nurses gathered around the reception desk on the first floor noticed the odor of something burning, akin to the smell of scorching bedding. A search was started with Miss Selfe taking the waiting room and looking around the candy counter to see if any papers were on fire. Then the cause was spotted . . . a piece of smoldering string lying in the sand-filled urn by the stairway.

MRS. HOUDINI DIES ON TRAIN

Death Reunites Her With Husband She Sought To Reach for 10 Years.

(By International News Service)

NEEDLES, Cal. — Mrs. Beatrice Houdini, 69, widow of Harry Houdini, world renowned magician and escape artist, died aboard an east-bound train last night while enroute to her New York home.

Removed from the train, the body was taken to a Needles mortuary and early today was put aboard another train for New York.

Funeral services will be held in New York upon arrival, according to Mrs. Houdini's sister, Mrs. Marie Hinson of New York.

Mrs. Houdini was placed aboard the train last night in accordance with her wish "to spend my last days at home." Weighing but 77 pounds and too weak to talk she brightened somewhat after attendants placed her in her compartment. Shortly after, however, she suffered an attack and it was necessary to apply an oxygen mask.

She never rallied and death followed quickly.

When Harry Houdini died in 1926, he and Mrs. Houdini made a deathbed pact that he would somehow reach her from the "other world."

For 10 years, she kept a lighted shrine beside his picture in her Hollywood home, and every year upon the anniversary of his death she held seances trying to communicate with his spirit.

All attempts were futile. Despairing in 1936, she turned out the light she had kept burning faithfully for her famous husband.

"I have absolutely no fear of death," she said. "But when I die, even if I should have the supernatural power to return to the world, I shall never, never come back. "So if any spiritualists mediums claim that they have heard from me, you can brand them as liars."

CARD TOURNEY STARTS MONDAY

Inter-Park Event To Open at John's Park Next Week.

The annual inter-park card tournament will begin Monday at Johns park for six evenings lasting through March 22. Playing time is at 8 p. m. for either bridge or pinochle.

Climaxing the affair will be a banquet March 29 at Prospect park for every person who participated in one or all of the six events. To be eligible for high score awards persons must attend four of the evening games.

Playing dates besides the opening one and places are: Prospect, Feb. 22; North Lake, March 1; Liberty, March 8, Johns park, March 15; and North Lake, March 22.

MOTHER CLEARED

Court Advises Woman to Find Outside Care for 5 Children.

Complaint against Mrs. Mary Norris charging neglect and abandonment of her five children who range in age from 4 to 16 years was dismissed in juvenile court this morning by Judge Stuart Cramer who suggested that she arrange for her family's care outside her home.

The affidavit against Mrs. Norris was signed by her husband, Job Norris, who was removed today from the county jail, where he had been held for assault and battery and resisting an officer, to the Veterans' hospital in Chillicothe. Sentence on the charges was commuted after he was adjudged mentally incompetent.

WELLES ASKS AGREEMENT ON POST-WAR AIMS

Declares United Nations Face Disaster Unless They Map Program.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, today urged the United Nations to agree now on a post-war program to avert rivalries which he said would be disastrous.

"There could be no surer road to disaster, no surer means of bringing about unmitigated havoc in the future than for the United Nations to enter the post-war period as rivals and opponents in their commercial and financial policies, rather than as collaborators in a common task of seeking and achieving international economic stability and general well being," Welles said in an address prepared for broadcast at the opening of United Nations' month. He added:

"Together we can solve this gigantic problem; opposed to one another, no one of us will profit."

Welles expressed regret no representative of Soviet Russia was present at the ceremonies, held in Rockefeller Plaza under the auspices of the office of war information. He noted the British commonwealth, China and Mexico were represented.

"We recognize," he said, "that in any gathering which symbolizes the United Nations, the presence and participation of the Soviet Union is imperatively required."

Welles' speech followed by a few days the statement of Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Conn.) in congress that "there is a vast area of specified war and peace aims which can never be clarified, stated or proposed, and certainly not enjoined upon the world, until we know what goes on in the mind of Joseph Stalin."

Answering those who say the Atlantic charter "should be further clarified," Welles said it seemed to him that it contained "all of the objectives which men and women who are struggling to preserve our civilization and to achieve their own freedom and security would wish to have held up before them."

"But principles and objectives unfortunately remain only words and noble aspirations unless they are translated into reality," he added.

MISS GWENDOLYN CRIST WED TO NEW YORKER

Former Mansfield Girl Wed to Jack E. Curtis, of New York, In Feb. 2 Ceremony; Rev. Charles T. Knapp Officiates.

THE EPISCOPAL CHAPEL in Babylon, N. Y., was chosen by Miss Gwendolyn W. Crist, a former Mansfielder, for the scene of her wedding, Feb. 2, to Jack E. Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis of New York City.

Rev. Charles T. Knapp read the quiet ceremony in the chapel before an altar banked with vases of gladioli at 4 p. m.

For her wedding. Miss Crist chose a street length dress of ashes of roses, with which she wore brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of orchids.

Miss Eleanor Bodwell from Farmingdale, N. Y, close friend of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore an olive green street length frock with black accessories and a corsage of roses. William Wunderlich served as Mr. Curtis' best man.

Mrs. Harry Fisher, mother of the bride, appeared at her daughter's wedding wearing a black ensemble with matching accessories. Mrs Curtis also wore black with black accessories. Both had corsages of gardenias.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the Wunderlich home for 20 guests. A buffet luncheon was served The centerpiece was a large tiered wedding cake, with a miniature bride and groom.

The former Miss Crist is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, 268 Ramey avenue. She is a graduate of Edgerton high school and Tri State college at Angola, Ind. Residing in Mansfield until the first of November of last year, she was previously employed at the Shelby Auto Call company.

Mr. Curtis is a graduate of the Evanston, Ill., high school. He too graduated from Tri State college. Both Mr. and Mrs. Curtis are now employed at the Republican Aviation corporation in Farmingdale. They will reside at 31 Willoughby avenue, Babylon, Long Island, N. Y.

St. Agnes Guild Holds Meeting

The theme of the meeting of the St. Agnes guild of the Grace Episcopal church was "Have You an Educated Heart?" presented by Mrs. Henry Bronkar, when Mrs. Louise Boesch and Mrs. W. R Williams entertained at the former's home on Carpenter road.

Mrs. L. E. LeBarre conducted the devotions at the meeting at which Mrs Harry Rhonehouse was a guest. Fifteen members were in attendance. Rev Glenn F. Lewis continued his instructive talk to the guild, entitled "Power of the Printed Word."

After a short business session, the evening was spent socially. When luncheon was served, Valentine appointments were used The next meeting will be held on March 11 at the home of Mrs. J F. Terman, 387 West Third street.

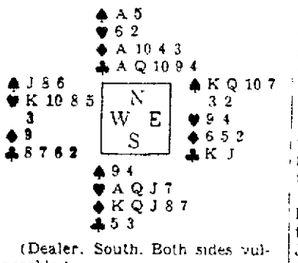
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE WAY TO FOOL HIM

There are almost countless ways for a defender to mislead a declarer, and make him play in a manner which will not succeed. One of the most effective of these is to take a trick with a higher card when you could take it with a lower one, and thus cause him to place the missing lower honor in your partner's hand. In some spots such a play works like a charm.



(Dealer, South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♠
3 ♥	Dbl	3 NT	Dbl
Pass	4 ♠	5 ♦	Pass
Pass	Dbl

That was certainly exciting rubber bridge bidding, even if not all of the calls would have been conceded by all fine players to have been sound West had a good reason for his lead, however, the J of his partner's spades, which knocked out dummy's A right at the start. With the heart finesse marked to lose, South decided his main hope of salvation lay in the club suit.

Counting West as having exactly three spades for his belated support of that suit, and East therefore for six, he got the trump count by taking three rounds. This left only four cards unaccounted for in East's hand, between hearts and clubs Feeling sure that East would have the club K to make his overcall sound, but might not have the J, South finessed the club 10 in the hope that this lowly card would force the big one

Lo and behold, that is just what East used to win the trick With the J now marked in West's hand and probably the rest of the suit with East now blank, South let East score the spade K took the returned heart 9 with the A and was ready to give West "the works" in clubs He led the 5 and finessed the 9, but the J won, setting the contract.

South admitted later that East had "fixed" him. If East had won the finesse of the club 10 with the J, South was then going to play the A on the second club round to try to drop what he considered a marked K That would have enabled him to bring in the rest of the suit, discarding his three remaining hearts and thus limiting his losses to one trick in spades and one in clubs.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Halloran studied the strips of gauze outlining Georges scalp and face, then said, "I can fix him up temporarily inside a half hour, but he ought later to go back to the lotion for awhile."

"That will be possible," my father said. "There will be no need for his seeing anybody outside this room, after his interview with the bank official, until he goes to the supper at the Veritzen apartment after the theater."

Then the make-up man said, "And now, your majesty, if you'll just come with me."

"Don't call me that, I beg of you," Georges said earnestly and sincerely. "I am no longer a king.

There is no way I can help my unhappy country now except by making the most of myself over here, when I can get a chance. So please remember that my name is Georges Minot from now on, with no title attached

"I will remember, Mr. Minot," Halloran said, and as they turned toward my bedroom, my father spoke a soft-voiced warning.

"Remember," he said, "to keep locked that camouflaged door between the two suites. If a knock comes on it, do not answer it; come for me, and keep your voices low."

Then they left and my father looked at me with twinkling eyes.

"Exit a king, enter a go-getting American," he said.

"If he ever grows up," I amended a bit acidly.

Worried About Mary.

"What is worrying you?" my father asked. "Is Mary showing any favorable reaction to Georges' interest in her?"

"Not a sign of it," I replied promptly. "She wouldn't be a natural woman if she weren't a bit flattered, but her chief concern is to keep Noel and Olina from observing the trend of Georges' fancy."

Then I quickly outlined Mary's plan to "turn off her charm" and appear as colorless as possible at the supper party, so that Olina might have the center of the stage.

"Very ingenious," my father commended. "But don't try to tell me Mary originated that plan. The traces of your fine Italian hand are very apparent. And it ought to work. Georges is a bit superficial, but has the makings of a fine man in him.

Veritzen A Patriot.

"I hope your ruse succeeds," he went on. "It would be too bad to have Georges' farewell party spoiled by any action that might bring heartache to Olina or dissension between Noel and Mary. However, Noel ought to be in an affable mood, since Redfield is being removed forever from Mary's orbit."

I sat upright with quickened interest.

"You told me you had succeeded with Philip Veritzen," I said, "but you didn't have time to explain. I imagine he was hard to persuade."

"He was at first," my father said, "but after all the man's a patriot, and when he saw how important it is to keep Redfield on as the staked-out-goat to lure the tiger into the trap, he consented to that plan, also to a feigned illness or accident for Mary."

"It will have to be an accident," I said firmly.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 13.

Rather conflicting astral influences are noted in this day's astrological chart, with some promise of moderate activity and accomplishment. It might be well to conform with any duties or obligations arising with a spirit of generosity and good nature.

Those whose birthday it is may have certain openings, with popularity and prestige, if advanced by a desire to accept duties and responsibilities with a spirit of grace and generosity. Also there may be obstacles and frustrations.

A child born on this day while being studious and industrious, may face depressing or frustrating conditions.

Blue Devils Lose Two Players; Meet Tygers

Zanesville Drops Only Two Games On Home Court

COACH VERN HOFFMAN of the Mansfield high school basketball team probably is very happy these days that he has "children" playing for him instead of grown-up army material. Other high school teams are losing players to the service with each passing week.

Zanesville Blue Devils, opponents of the Tygers tomorrow night at Zanesville, last week lost two regular players to the army, Fred McElfresh, a forward, and Dave Bateson, a guard.

Tyger Football Coach Paul Snyder, who saw Zanesville play at Mt. Vernon recently, says the Blue Devils probably can get along without Bateson, but that McElfresh is a real loss.

Zanesville still has plenty of material on a team which has lost only two home games this season, one to its alumni, and one to Newark. The Blue Devils handed a 42-34 defeat to a fine Dover team at Zanesville, and Dover twice defeated Newark to take first place in the Central Ohio league.

The Blue Devils play at Dover tonight.

The Zanesville record: Zanesville 26, New Philadelphia 36; Zanesville 41, Lancaster 53; Zanesville 40, Columbus Central 36, Zanesville 34, Alumni 38; Zanesville 29, Newark 48; Zanesville 42, Dover 34; Zanesville 32, Chillicothe 24; Zanesville 41, Mt. Eddie Anderson Enters Army Ranks

CHICAGO —(AP)— The second war-created change in Big Ten football coaching ranks has deprived the Iowa Hawkeyes of their mentor, Dr. Edward N. Anderson, who is now a major in the army medical corps.

Anderson enters the service less than one year since Bernie Bierman left his post at Minnesota to become a lieutenant-colonel in the marine corps. Bierman now is athletic director and football coach at the Iowa Naval Pre-Flight school.

Anderson, former Notre Dame grid star, probably will be stationed at the veterans hospital at Clinton, Ia., for some time.

Ginn Entered In A. A. U. Meet Mile

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The mile field for the 55th annual national A. A. U. track and field meet in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 27, shaped up today as one of the best of the season with Bobby Ginn of Nebraska the latest entrant to join Gil Dobbs, defending champion, and Earl Mitchell, Wanamaker winner.

Ginn, now a private at Stinson field, San Antonio, Tex., was unable to obtain a furlough to compete in the Sugar Bowl meet but has been granted leave for the A. A. U. meet. His best time for the distance is 4:10.1, registered two seasons ago, and his winning time in the NCAA mile last year when he defeated Les MacMitchell and Leroy Weed, was 4:11.1.

Monday will mark the closing date for entries for the interscholastic championships scheduled for the afternoon of the 27th.

HOLLYWOOD AWAITS JOE LOUIS ARRIVAL

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— His arrival and departure will be kept a strict military secret, but Los Angeles and Hollywood today looked forward to greeting Sergt. Joe Louis Barrow when he hits town to cavort in the film version of "This Is the Army."

The heavyweight champion will be "on military assignment" and will not be permitted to make any public appearances, army officials said.

Since July, Louis has been stationed as a boxing instructor at Ft. Riley, Kans.

Hits Gridiron Move to Cities

Buck-Purdue Tilt May Go To Cleveland.

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— transfer of big-time football games from the home lots of host teams to metropolitan centers constitutes a menace to the athletic programs of smaller institutions, George L. Rider of Miami University believes.

The intramural athletic chief of the Redskins, vice president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, stated his views in a report to the association is New York.

Rider's contention assumed new importance today with the announcement that Notre Dame had shifted its game with the U. S. Naval Academy, scheduled Oct. 30 at South Bend, to the Municipal stadium at Cleveland, and reports that Ohio State would move its Oct. 9 contest with Purdue to the same spot instead of playing at Columbus.

The Buckeye athletic board is expected to announce its decision within the next few days. President Howard L. Bevis and Athletic Director L. W. St. John were said to favor the shift of the Boilermaker-Buck fray.

Rider, in reporting on 1942 activities in the fourth district of the N. C. A. A., declared:

"The University of Illinois, with a much improved team, showed considerable increase in attendance. Illinois and Notre Dam increased their attendance by playing Ohio State and the Navy in the Cleveland Stadium at Cleveland, O.

"It is a regrettable fact that attendance at the smaller Ohio college games, particularly those played in or near Cleveland, on the same week-end was reduced to practically nothing.

* * *

"It is hoped that the time will come when the larger institutions will be more considerate of the smaller colleges, or it will not be long until some of them (the smaller schools) may have to abandon football entirely as an intercollegiate sport."

Home Folks To See Derby

Louisville Fans Get Chance To Attend Race.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — The decision to make the Kentucky Derby this year a strictly hometown affair, a move to conserve transportation, means that thousands of Louisvillians probably will see the great classic of American racing for the first time next May 1.

When Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, approved the management's plan to localize derby attendance, Louisville fans were enveloped in a glow of satisfaction — even though they understood that most of the "derby glamor" was likely to be missing this year.

Mayor Wilson Wyatt explained it this way:

"So many people who have lived here for years never got near Churchill Downs on derby day because they didn't care to buck the crowd from out of town. And thousands who did get to the track never saw the race run because the crowd was too big for everyone to get a view of the track.

"Now for the first time in years, all our home folks who want to will get a chance to enjoy the derby."

As for the "glamor,"—few parties are expected; the hotels already jammed for months, will be unable to conduct special functions; public dances are improbable; flags in the streets and a general holiday spirit are likely to be taboo. Louisville is an industrial city and much of its industry is devoted to the war effort.

Moreover, most of the festivity was Louisville's way of showing its hospitality to derby visitors.

BUCKEYE GRIDDERS PRACTICE MARCH 30

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Spring football practice at Ohio State university will begin March 30 and will continue through May 22, concluding with the annual intrasquad game for the high school coaches' clinic, it was announced today.

Coach Paul Brown has mailed invitations to 31 of last year's varsity players, 24 of the freshman "A" squad, nine of the freshman "B" squad and several other promising students with high school football experience. Of the original squad of 55 "A" frosh players, only the invited 24 remain in school.

JIM THORPE ILL

DETROIT —(U.P.)— Jim Thorpe, 54, one-time Carlisle Indian Institute football and track star, today was reported in a satisfactory condition by attendants at Henry Ford hospital. Thorpe was taken to the hospital yesterday after he suffered a heart attack at the Ford River Rouge plant, where he was a guard.

Barons Defeated By Indianapolis

(By Associated Press)

Members of the Providence Reds are doubly happy today, for not only did they go into a fourth-place tie with the Indianapolis Capitals, but they defeated the Hershey Bears for the first time in seven starts last night, 5-3.

The Reds and Caps were tied for fifth prior to last night's contests, but Indianapolis defeated the Cleveland Barons, 3-2, and both teams advanced a notch in the American hockey league standings. In the third fray of the evening, the Pittsburgh Hornets nosed out the Buffalo Bisons, 5-4.

No games are scheduled for tonight.

SHOOT POSTPONED

The regular shoot of the Mansfield Muzzle Loader Rifle club, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, has been postponed due to the death of Arthur T. Owen, secretary-treasurer.

CALLED TO SERVICE

ATLANTA—(AP)—Frank Stranahan, Toledo golfer, a member of the Air Corps Reserve at the University of Miami, has been ordered to active duty, the fourth service command disclosed.

Altar Bound

Former Olympic champ, Marjorie Gestring, 20, above, will be married March 25 to Edward H. Carter, 22, of Los Angeles, according to an announcement made by the swim queen at Palo Alto, Cal., where she is a student at Stanford university. Carter is a student at University of Los Angeles.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The word "morale" has taken such a beating lately that strong men sometimes shudder and turn away when they heard it. But the other night we heard it used in an "off-the-record" talk by an army man who should know what he's saying—and he came out strongly in favor of sports as an aid to civilian and military morale . . . This officer hasn't a sports background to influence him. He's a regular army man who has seen the fighting forces of both sides in action and whose job in this war is working against the morale of the German army.

Germany, he said, had made the "mistake" of taking its athletes and entertainers out of circulation when the war began and later it was found necessary to recall some of the runners, boxers and opera singers to raise the spirits of the herrenvolk at home . . . the officer says sports news is good news even when your favorite team loses . . . for the pat-on-the-back department he adds: "You fellows (meaning sports writers) are doing a wonderful job of keeping up morale."

* * *

Following a similar line of thought is a recent note from another officer who starts out: "Keep up the plugs for professional sports." And adds that in his two years in the army he never has heard a soldier make a crack about ballplayers failing to join up and that the pennant races and football "dope" are two unfailing subjects of discussion . . . "The way the boys feel," he says, "the shutting down of pro and college sports would leave the newspapers with only war news and society—they would like to get away from the war news once in a while and they are not interested in the society columns."

Tribe Players Sign Contracts

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Signed contracts for the 1943 season started trickling into the Cleveland Indians front office today—despite baseball's uncertain future—so spring can't be very far away.

Roger Peckinpaugh, Tribe's vice president, has three contracts signed by Outfielder Fabian Gaffke, Pitcher Paul Calvert and Infielder Ted Szczepkowski.

With the possible exception of Gaffke, whose outer gardening may be needed badly, the first arrivals were nothing to get excited about. But Peckinpaugh has high hopes of getting the other 27 contracts in without any trouble.

There is a possibility that some of the best Indians who are working in war plants may wait until the last minute before returning their papers. Peckinpaugh said he did not anticipate any holdouts.

WILLIE PEP CHALKS 60TH STRAIGHT WIN

BOSTON, Mass. —(INS)— Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., world's featherweight champion today chalked up his 60th straight win following his victory over Jack Crawford in a 10-round non-title bout.

Pep was thoroughly in control of the situation during the entire fight peppering his opponent with left hooks and jabs. The only knockdown came in the seventh round when Pep doubled up the New Yorker, though he failed to floor him for the count.

Commissioner Declares He Has No Authority To Act In Cage Dispute

SO FAR as the Ohio High School Athletic association is concerned, the protest by Lucas high school over a 19-20 defeat by Bellville, is not allowed.

Association Commissioner H. R. Townsend in a letter yesterday to Lucas Coach Lawrence L. Deckrosh, declares that he is without authority and that there is no one in authority to act on the Lucas protest.

This statement ends the case as far as the state association is concerned.

However, Townsend briefly reviews the case and gives his opinion that it invol

Your Federal Income Tax

No. 25—DEDUCTIONS FOR BAD DEBTS (PART ONE)

If a debt has become worthless during the year, the amount may, with certain exceptions, be taken as a deduction in arriving at net income for federal income tax purposes. Bad debts occurring in course of trade or profession are shown in Schedule H to arrive at net profit (or loss) from business or profession; other bad debts are shown in item 16 of the return, Form 1040, and must be supported in all cases with a statement (in Schedule C) showing the circumstances. Losses from corporate securities with interest coupons or in registered form, which become worthless during the year, and which are capital assets, are shown in Schedule F.

In all cases of a deduction for bad debt, the explanation must show (a) of what the debt consisted, (b) name and family relationship, if any, of the debtor, (c) when the debt was created, (d) when it became due, (e) what efforts have been made to collect the debt, and (f) how it was determined to be worthless. A precise statement is required because of the many different transactions out of which the relationship of debtor and creditor may arise and the consequent many definitions of the word "debt."

In order to be an allowable deduction, a debt must become worthless within the year for which the return is made. The determination of worthlessness is an important provision in establishing the allowability of the deduction. The taxpayer must take reasonable steps to determine that there is no probability of payment or collection, and must have prima facie evidence to prove that the debt has no value. If, in the exercise of sound business judgment a taxpayer concludes, after making every reasonable effort to determine whether there is likelihood of recovery, that the debt is of no value, a deduction for such debt may be allowable. Court action, such as a legal judgment or adjudication in bankruptcy is not necessary as proof that the debt is worthless, as indeed it frequently happens that a debt may be worthless before the debtor has been adjudged bankrupt.

A second important provision regarding deductibility for bad debts is that the deduction must be taken in the taxable year in which the debt becomes worthless. The fact that a debt is still held open on the books of the taxpayer does not mean that it has value, and the law does not permit a taxpayer to defer claiming a deductible allowance on that account, beyond the year in which it becomes worthless.

A further requirement regarding deductibility for bad debts is that a debt must have existed in fact and in law. If a debtor was not legally liable to the taxpayer, then there was no debt to become worthless. Advances to relatives to tide them over financial straits, made out of moral considerations and without understandings regarding repayment, are frequently held to be in the nature of a gift rather than a loan, and consequently no deduction would be allowable for nonpayment. However, when a loan is made to a relative in a bona fide business transaction a deduction may be allowed because of uncollectibility.

PAM, THE CHIEF WAS DELIGHTED WITH YOUR WORK ON THE ANNA SCHMIDT CASE... SAID TO TELL YOU HE'D HAVE PLENTY MORE FOR YOU TO DO!
OH I'M GLAD IF I'VE MADE GOOD, DAVID!
BUT RIGHT NOW, HE WANTS YOU TO TAKE A GOOD REST, GET READY FOR WHATEVER MAY BE AHEAD! HE MIGHT CALL YOU BEFORE I GET BACK, THOUGH, AND...
YOU GET BACK? ARE YOU GOING AWAY, DAVID?
YES, PRECIOUS, LEAVING IN THE MORNING! HOPE I'LL BE ABLE TO WIND UP MY ASSIGNMENT SOON AND BE BACK HERE AGAIN
OH, I HOPE SO, TOO, DEAR
BUT DO YOU KNOW, PAM....
---YOU AND I OUGHT TO BE VERY THANKFUL AND GRATEFUL! WE'RE TRYING TO DO OUR BIT IN THIS ALL-OUT CONFLICT FOR FREEDOM, AND YET, WE CAN BE MUCH TOGETHER--EVEN WORK TOGETHER! THAT'S MORE THAN MANY SWEET-HEARTS CAN, HONEY!

'MORE RATIONS,' NELSON WARNS

Declares Many Non-War Firms To Be Hit By Gigantic Arms Program.

such, Nelson testified, that further rationing may be forced even where materials are available.

"We will have to reduce the amount of clothing produced and it will mean rationing clothing without question, even beyong the question of the amount of material which could be spared," he told the committee, adding:

"We had hoped this year to get by without rationing cotton or woolen clothing."

This testimony was given by the WPB chairman on Feb. 5, several days before he joined with Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown in a statement last Tuesday declaring that at the present time there was no shortage of clothing and no need for rationing. They said supplies of wool were several hundred million pounds greater than when the United States entered the war.

In his testimony before the committee, however, Nelson was discussing only the manpower shortage and its expected effect on civilian industries.

In this connection he said:

"It will mean a reduction in all of the industries which are now working making things for the civilian trade, for retail trades. It will reduce, in other words, the amount of goods that can be produced to supply retailers over the whole country, which will mean a reduction in the number of retailers, mean a reduction in the number of people employed by retailers."

Discussing the current goal which would boost the armed forces to 10,750,000 men by the end of this year, Nelson said he thought the judgment of military men must be accepted.

"I have felt that if they say they need this many people," he declared, "that we have to do our very best to find a way to provide them. It's going to be a very difficult job and there will be strains and stresses in every diration."

Objecting to classing civilian production as "non-essential," Nelson said the needs of the nonmilitary portion of the population must not be overlooked.

"This question of civilian services is exceedingly important, in my opinion," he said. "If we curtail civilian services too far, we are going to impede war production."

He said 1,800 additional workers were needed to produce the $80,000,000,000 in munitions programmed in $95,000,000,000 of war expenditures, pointing out last year's $48,000,000,000 production total could be doubled with so few additional because tooling and plant construction had been nearly completed and because workmen were gaining in skill.

To get this net increase, however, he said, it would be necessary to find 6,400,000 additional workers, conceding that the 4,300,000 additional men to be placed in the armed forces would have to come largely from industry and the farms. He said other essential industries outside of munitions would require 300,000 more workers.

To meet this goal, the war manpower commission has calculated that 2,700,000 workers will have to be obtained from less essential industries, 1,900,000 from women who have not worked before, 800,000 from youths reaching working age and retired persons, 500,000 from the unemployed and 500,000 from lengthening the work week to 48 hours.

At the same time, secretary of Agriculture Wickard has testifed that about 3,000,000 additional workers will have to be found for food production.

STATE OFFICIAL SPEAKS TONIGHT

R. R. Bangham To Give Lincoln Day Address at Church.

R. R. Bangham, purchasing agent for the state welfare department and former state representative from Clinton county, will be the principal speaker at the annual Lincoln day dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. today at the First Methodist church.

Also scheduled to speak is Jacob Garber, Butler, an authority on Lincoln. A musical program will be presented.

A capacity attendance of 250 at the dinner was assured today, according to Mrs. Ralph Hughes, president of the Richland County G. O. P. Women's club. The women's group will sponsor the meeting, and Mrs. Elizabeth Grubaugh will preside. State Representative John L. Catlett will introduce Bangham.

DIES AT AGE 42

Mary Allene Hout Stricken at Mifflin Township Home.

Mary Allene Hout, 42, a former piano teacher in Richland county, died early today at her home in Mifflin township, following a lingering illness. She was born in Mifflin township, Aug. 11, 1900, the daughter of Lorenzo and Estella Boals Hout and spent her lifetime in the community.

A member of the First Methodist church, she is survived by her parents and one sister, Mrs. Gerald Dudley.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. Edward G. Corwin. Burial will be in the Windsor cemetery.

Parents Appeal To Missing Girl To Return Home

There will be only parental thanksgiving and blessings for Betty Edwards, 17, Mansfield Senior high school student, if she will return to her home at 45 Winwood drive, or write to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Edwards, police broadcasts to cities in several states said today.

The girl has been missing since Sunday night when last seen by a schoolmate leaving a city bus at South Main street and Raleigh avenue.

In the opinion of Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp, assigned to the investigation by Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Betty feared parental reprisals because she attended a movie instead of church services.

Detectives have been vainly seeking her trail since she alighted from the bus near her home at 9:30 p. m. Sunday.

Descriptions of the girl have been broadcast to police throughout Ohio. Betty is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, light complexion, dark blond hair, blue eyes and wore a dark blue coat with fur collar, white scarf with red tassels, tan dress, pink jacket, suede shoes, and also wore glasses.

CELEBRATE BY ATTACKING JAPS

U. S. Fliers Mark Anniversary By Raiding Burma.

NEW DELHI—(AP)—The United States army's tenth air force sent four units of bombers against Japanese installations in Burma today as part of its celebration of the first anniversary of its creation.

Two bomber formations concentrated on railroad installations at Rangoon. Another attacked the Myitnge bridge, which already has been wrecked, to disrupt Japanese efforts to restore north-south rail and highway communications through Mandalay.

The fourth formation raided Japanese anti-aircraft establishments around the bridge, which seek to protect work crews during the repair operations.

THE BOY FROM MAINE

CHAPTER XXVII

Both the Harkers went to Rosalie's parents for a Christmas visit. Rosalie came back looking well and happy, and she said to Hobey that she had never felt better. "Maternity agrees with me like mad," she said lightly. "It's obviously what I should have been busy about all these years . . . Well, but talk to me," she added. "Tell me things. What's been happening to you?"

"Well, let's see," he said. "I missed you horribly—that's Item One. And I got a raise—of sorts."

"You mean on the radio job? Or from Ruby?"

"On the radio job. Oh, and I picked up another one, by the way—same sort of thing, but at 11:15 a. m., with a repeat at 5. It's a Quixit, if you know what that is. It's a laundry soap that leaves the ladies' hands as soft as flowers. The very thing for your Monday mornings at the washboard, darling."

"Um-hmm. Filling a longleft want. But poor you," Rosalie said, "you'll never wake up in time, do you think? Imagine you up and eloquent at 11:15 a. m. Oh, but Hobey, I'm glad about it—if you are. Have you started already? What's it like?"

They discussed the new job for a minute or so, Hobey somewhat absentmindedly; he was saving the real news till the last. Now Rosalie said, "Well, and what else?" but he found himself still reluctant about it. He said, "Let's see. Nothing else, I guess." And then: "Oh, yes, there is, at that. Who do you think turned up in town while you were away? A Mitchell's Islander."

"Nonsense," Rosalie said. "There must be some mistake. How would a Mitchell's Islander get all the way down here—unless, of course, he got washed away in a squall, and drifted down?"

"You're talking to one who did," Hobey reminded her. "It can happen."

"That was different, though. You were clearly ever a rover at heart. The rest of them . . . But who is it?" Rosalie broke off to say. "Anybody I'd remember?"

"I imagine you would if you saw her," Hobey said. "It's one of that copious Roberts brood—the one named Bonnie. Or Bonivere, if I must."

"I know. The pretty one. Of course I remember her," Rosalie said, and laughed. "I should! She was forever hovering around. She actually used to jump out at me from behind every rock and tree."

"That's the one, all right," Hobey said drily.

"And she turned up here in New York? What for? No, don't tell me," Rosalie said, "Let me guess. She looked at herself in a tidal pool, and now she wants to go on the stage."

"Correct. Exactly."

"Well, so what? What are you going to do?"

"We're already doing it," Hobey said. "We're working like beavers, Ruby and I. Have been, now, for about three weeks. Ever since she blew in."

Rosalie looked fascinated. "And you mean you really think you can do something with her? She's terribly pretty, of course. That hair—and she's got a cute figure—a little too much of it, though, as I remember . . ."

"We're trimming off about eight pounds of that," Hobey reported. "Or rather, Varden's is. And we've had those white eyelashes dyed—and they turned out to be sensational. We're really making progress. You should see."

"'Should'?" Rosalie cried delightedly. "I must! I can't wait. What else are you doing to her, for heaven's sake? This is marvelous. What's she going to be when you get through with her—a show girl?"

"Well," Hobey said, "or better."

"What do you mean? Can she dance, or sing, or something? Now don't tell me!"

"I'm not going to tell you," Hobey said. "I'm saving it as a surprise."

He felt better now. The little announcement was made, and it was over safely. Somehow he had been afraid that Rosalie would say, "But what is she to you? What are you doing this for? Why should you bother?" Rosalie had said none of these things, and now he saw that there was no real reason why she should have said or thought of saving them. His apprehension had been just his guilty conscience.

He had not expected to have a guilty conscience about Bonnie Roberts, and in the days and weeks that had followed his return from the island last spring he had thought of her—when he thought of her at all—with a complete lack of any sense of obligation or responsibility.

She had arrived during the week before Christmas. It was a crowded Friday evening in the Club Mallory, just after opening time. One of the waiter captains came to Hobey and said, "There's a dame at table 86, making an awful fuss to see you. Says she knows you from a boy. She was all for going back to your dressing room, but I told her to wait and I'd tell you, and you'd maybe come to the table."

"What's her nome?" Hobey said, although he already thought he knew.

"Wouldn't give it. I asked her, but she said it was none of my business."

"Who's she with?" Hobey said. Women weren't admitted there alone.

"Some little guy. Don't know him."

Table 86 was far back from the floor, and near the kitchen. Hobey made his way through the room, pausing several times en route to greet people he knew, or to be greeted by people he didn't. Long before he got to Bonnie's table he was conscious of her yellow hair like a flamboyant flag ahead of him; he could see it out of the corner of his eye. He could see also that she was all dressed up—the phrase was "fit to kill," he thought morosely. And he could see the man with her, a sharp-faced little heel, cigar-chewing. Who the hell might that be? Anybody.

Bonnie stood up to welcome him, though her companion didn't. The tightest and shortest skirt in New York hit her at the knees—you couldn't imagine what would happen when she sat down in it. A monkey-fur cape sprayed down over her shoulders like cartoonist's ink; tied in the front with a big satin bow. There were artificial orchids pinned on the cape. Bracelets banged on Bonnie's wrists, and several loops of enormous pearl beads rattled around her neck and down her front. Her shoes had bows on the insteps. The whole picture was so exaggerated that only Bonnie's triumphant natural beauty saved her from looking ludicrous.

"Well, Cinderella," Hobey said. "Where did you come from?"

"Boston," Bonnie said jauntily. "Just today. Didn't we, Harry? This is Harry," she explained offhand. "I met him on the train."

She didn't give his last name, and Hobey gathered that she didn't know it. "Aren't you surprised to see me?" she continued eagerly. "How do you like the way I look? I thought maybe you wouldn't even recognize me."

"Not a chance," said Hobey. "Not a chance. But you've changed. I will admit. Where did you get those clothes—in Boston?"

"Sure, in Boston," she said proudly.

"Boston must have changed too, since my day," Hobey said succinctly.

Watching and listening to her, he was immediately aware that Bonnie had adopted a new personality, to match her costume; and definitely a new accent and way of speaking. This was based on Rosalie's way of speaking, but Bonnie's own new personality was superimposed on it—it was a kind of combination of Beacon street and guttersnipe, with just the faintest undertone of State-of-Maine left in it.

"Look," she was saying now. "Harry says if I know you so well, why can't I get us a decent table. So couldn't you get us one? We can't see the show from here."

Hobey thought, anything Harry wants of course; and he said aloud, "I'll see." In the end he had them moved to a table on the second tier above the ringside. It was the best he could do. He left them there; and during the next hour, while the show was on, he couldn't help watching the table—he kept glancing up there from time to time—and he saw among other things that Bonnie was drinking steadily. Chip off the old block, he said to himself, remembering her father and his prodigious consumption of the favorite island tipple, which was cheap vanilla extract. This was rye whisky, and Bonnie drank it straight from little glasses, tossing it down. That's got to stop, Hobey thought sternly.

Presently he saw Harry go out; and as the show proceeded, his subconscious mind timed Harry's absence; and it grew overlong. "I knew it," he concluded finally. "That mug's run out on her." He observed with interest that Bonnie didn't seem in the least disconcerted. She sat leaning on her elbows, obviously enjoying the show—it was as though she hadn't even noticed her own solitude.

After the finale, Hobey joined her, and sat down in Harry's chair. "You were just wonderful," she told him fervently, at once.

"Thanks. Look, now baby," Hobey said. "Let this be a lesson to you. Guys you pick up on trains run off and leave you with the check—or don't they?"

"I guess he did," said Bonnie cheerfully. "I was just thinking about that, myself. It's a good thing I'm in your night club, instead of some place they don't know me. And I'm a little tight, too," she added confidently. She giggled. "What do you know about that?"

"It would be a miracle if you weren't," Hobey said shortly. "That's what I know about that. Come on, I'm going to take you out of here."

"Where to?"

"Backstage."

The main thing was to get her out of sight. He conducted her back, by a roundabout route, and into his dressing room. There he said, "Sit down," and closed the door and looked at her. Bonnie sat down, meanwhile gazing large-eyed all about her.

"All right, talk," Hobey said. "What goes? What's the situation? When did you leave Maine?"

"June," Bonnie said. "Right after you did." She hesitated, and glanced at him truculently, as though she expected to be taken to task. But Hobey said nothing, and after a moment she went on.

It was a short story. She had taken the day steamer to Portland and stayed there until some time in July. "Working?" Hobey asked, and she said, "No, I didn't have to work. I met a gentleman on the steamer and he took care of me. I did all right," she added with satisfaction.

COMMANDOS HIT ITALIANS NEAR BIZERTE BASE

Advance In Mateur Area as Eighth Army Pursues Africa Corps.

Afrika Korps were falling back to positions farther inside Tunisia, ahead of the advancing British Eighth army.

Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, commanding the Eighth army, was not pushing the Afrika Korps' rear guards too hard, it was said, and some observers believed he was merely nudging the Axis forces along to find out where they intend to make a determined stand.

There still was no indication whether Marshal Erwin Rommel, Axis commander-in-chief in North Africa, would make a stand behind the Mareth line, some 50 miles ahead of the British.

But it was believed, dispatches said, that the Mareth line was too extended for Rommel's taste, and he might retreat to central Tunisia and try to hold the 14-mile stretch above Gabes that lies between the impassable Chott Djerid salt marshes and the coast.

Montgomery's armored patrols were understood to be far out in the desert south of the Mareth line, and in contact with the camel-mounted cavalry of Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc's Fighting French forces from the Chad region.

The final, smashing offensive by the 500,000 Allied troops in Africa to throw the Germans and Italians into the sea was expected to begin within the next few weeks, under the supreme command of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, of the United States Army.

Montgomery Slated 'To Carry the Ball'

LONDON—(U.P.)—Gen. Sir. Bernard Montgomery, who led his hard-bitten British Eighth army from El Alamein to Tripoli, is the man who will carry the ball in the Tunisian campaign under the new Allied organization under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, well informed quarters understood today.

Montgomery's men, one of the best striking forces in the world, are expected to play the leading part in at least the first phase of the campaign by which the Allies intend to drive the Germans off the African continent.

British newspapers called Eisenhower's new command the Mediterranean basin, though actually his command spills over the basin.

The new lineup is as follows:

Eisenhower, generalissimo of all forces in north Africa.

Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, who has been commander in chief in the Middle East, deputy commander in chief.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, formerly air officer in command in the Middle East, air commander in chief in the Mediterranean.

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, now commanding British and American naval forces in North Africa, commands all Mediterranean operations.

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commanding in Iran and Iraq, becomes commander in chief in the Middle East, a separate command.

Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, commanding in the Mediterranean, becomes chief in Middle Eastern waters including the Red Sea.

Air Vice Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham, commanding air operations with the Eighth army, was assigned the job of concerting air operations in Tunisia under Tedder.

Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson retains his fighting command of the British First army, which went to Africa as part of the Allied landing force, and Montgomery retains command of his Eighth army, the largest and best in the theater.

Report Rommel Hurt In U. S. Raid

LONDON — (INS) — Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the Nazi Africa Korps which now has taken up positions in Tunisia, was wounded in a recent heavy American raid on the port of Gabes, the London Evening Star said today.

The newspaper, which said its information came from a "reliable source," added that Rommel now is in a hospital in Tunis.

RAF Batters Sub Base At Wilhelmshaven

LONDON — (UP) — Royal Air Force bombers heavily attacked Wilhelmshaven, important German naval and submarine base last night. Three planes were missing.

Southeast coast watchers reported "considerable activity" over the channel today, with squadrons of RAF planes crossing and recrossing in the direction of France above low, broken clouds.

Last night's raid was the first bombing attack on the great German naval base and shipbuilding center at Wilhelmshaven since United States air force Flying Fortresses pounded it three weeks ago.

Last night's smash represented a continuation of intensive air war against targets harboring or supplying submarines.

Wilhelmshaven, on the northwest side of Jahde bay, an inlet on the North sea and 33 miles northwest of Bremen, is one of the biggest submarine building centers the Reich possesses.

flanked on the south by the surprise thrust that had carried the northern army into Lozovaya, 75 miles due south of Kharkov and only 60 miles from the great Dnieper industrial region to the southwest.

Lozovaya's capture cut the main railway between Kharkov and the Donets basin and the Crimea. It drove a wedge between the two large German armies on the southern front.

Another segment of the army trying to cut south through the Donets basin to the Azov shore continued fighting in the Kramatorsk area against heavy German counter-attacks, the Russians said. This army was situated about 100 miles north of the Sea of Azov and about 120 miles northwest of Rostov.

About Rostov Red army troops were reported taking more towns on the railroad line to the northeast.

(Elsewhere in the battle for the Caucasus, it was reported that the Russian Black Sea fleet had pounded German shore positions in the western Caucasus and in four days had wiped out about seven enemy infantry companies, silenced 26 artillery and mortar batteries and destroyed ammunition dumps.)

FIRMS CITED

TOLEDO — (INS) — Warrants were to be issued today against two Toledo packing firms by U. S. Commissioner Morton J. Neipp, following receipt of complaints filed by the Toledo OPA office charging "black market" and price gouging activities.

The two firms named, the commissioner revealed, were the Cirulsky Packing Co., and J. D. Pacer Packing Company.

Eisenhower 'Foch' of World War II

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA — (INS) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, promoted in a few short months from major general to the temporary rank of full general, today took up his duties as commander in chief of all Allied forces in North Africa.

The command of the American general, with a staff of expert British generals, including veterans of Dunkirk, extends from Dakar in French West Africa to the Egyptian border.

The action of America and Britain in placing under his charge all Allied land, air and sea forces in the North Africa area makes Gen. Eisenhower, specialist in mechanized warfare, the "Marshal Foch" of World War. II.

The comparison probably will be borne out more fully in the future since once the Germans and Italians are ousted from North Africa Gen. Eisenhower and his staff probably will comprise the directing body for the eventual invasion of Europe.

Gen. Eisenhower, who accompanied the Allied invasion forces into Africa as a lieutenant general in command of American forces in the European theater, has as his right hand men Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, former British Middle East commander who now is deputy commander-in-chief, Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, chief of Allied naval forces, and Air Marshal Sir Arthur W. Tedder who will command all the air forces in the area.

More Pictures of War on Russion Front

Here are two more dramatic pictures of the war in Russia, made by Red army photographers. Death in the afternoon came (top) to the Nazi soldier in the foreground. He lies beside his anti-tank gun which had been blasted out of commission by the very tanks it was supposed to destroy. Russian infantrymen, under the protective cover of Red army tanks, run forward in a crouch to clean out with rifle, grenade and bayonet the German troops before them. Penetrating behind the fighting lines one of the Russian army's daring soldier-cameramen caught the scene at the bottom as Red guerilla fighters stormed a village in the area of Orlov, surprising a garrison of Germans.

Bricker Builds Surplus by Cornering Sales Tax Funds

get request, of less than $45,000,000. But the surplus turned out to be around $19,000,000.

And the next year, with governor still predicting a small surplus, that surplus turned out to be around $26,000,000.

So in two years alone—because of what charitably might be called an understatement Ohio built up a surplus in the state government funds of about $45,000,000.

One of the ways that surplus was built up, the record shows, was the cornering by the state of the sales tax revenue which actually belonged to the lesser taxing sub-divisions—cities, counties, townships—and for which the state was only the collection agency.

There came a time after that money was collected by the state that some cities in Ohio found themselves in such a situation financially, that they asked the state for their share of that money.

They were turned down by Gov. Bricker every time they asked for a split. Gov. Bricker took the attitude that appropriation of money was a function of the state legislature, which normally meets only once every two years. He refused to call a special session of the legislature to consider the plight of the cities.

As a result, officials of some hard-pressed Ohio cities — and some newspapers — charged that Gov. Bricker was building up a surplus in the state treasury at the expense of the sub-divisions which claimed that the money was rightfully theirs.

The answer was a prompt denial that there was any state surplus.

But when the biennial budget request for 1943-44 was presented to the legislature the denial blew back in the faces of those who had made it. The state finance director, a Bricker appointee, admitted that the state had $45,000,000 in surplus. Gov. Bricker admitted that the state had a surplus of $42,000,000.

The fact of the existence of such a surplus would not have been of such significance if it had not been for a report from the municipal research bureau of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, which compared costs of state government over a five-year period.

Those figures showed that Gov. Bricker had spent more money than any other governor in the history of the state, despite his reiterations of economy and conservatism.

The research bureau's figures were taken from the record, and they showed a total expenditure in 1937 under Martin L. Davey of $294,356,466 and a comparable total in 1941 under Gov. John W. Bricker of $339,817,296.

There then are figures on the difference in costs of operating the state government.

What lends added importance to them is the answer the governor gave a mayor of a hard-pressed city, seeking the then due share of sales tax receipts, collected by the state and poured into what turned out to be a surplus.

To that mayor, the governor said, roughly:

"Go home and tighten your belt. Live within your income."

Just as no one could criticize the governor's address to the legislature, no one could criticize that suggestion to a mayor.

The governor had set an example, but some of the state's mayors considered it a dubious one.

He had "tightened his belt" by boosting the state's expenses to the highest figure in the history of Ohio. And he had lived within his income by withholding tax funds from the subdivisions and by underestimating the state's revenue so that taxes could not be cut.

killed in land fighting alone to 50,000 in the whole land-sea-air action.

Approximately 6,000 Japanese were reported killed in the climactic drive since Jan. 10.

On the New Guinea front, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced Allied troops had scored a decisive victory over a large Japanese force and declared the enemy was retreating toward Mubo, only 12 miles below the big Japanese base at Salamaua, leaving 1,000 dead on the battlefield.

A communique said total enemy losses, including wounded, were probably many times the number of known dead. Allied losses were described as relatively light.

Meanwhile, imperial Tokyo headquarters made the totally unconfirmed claim Japanese submarines had sunk six ships totaling 54,000 tons off the east coast of Australia since mid-January.

A New Delhi communique said the Japanese had made a series of sharp counter-attacks in the region of Donbaik and Rathedaung, above Akyab.

Offensive From China Predicted

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Well informed sources predicted today that American strategy in the Far East envisages a steadily growing offensive against Japan from China as well as from South Pacific bases.

This was learned as Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox knocked down the theory that the navy planned a tedious island-by-island campaign to Tokyo. He indicated that strategy in the Pacific, now that Guadalcanal has been won, envisages bold, powerful thrusts in areas that will hurt Japan most.

"Of course, islands will be used in our progress toward the enemy homeland," he told a press conference late yesterday, implying that the attacks would be directed at major Japanese bases in the Pacific such as Truk Island, Rabaul, on New Britain Island, and Ponape Island in the Caroline group.

His statement and other developments created considerable speculation that the navy's strategy might be timed to implement an eventual attack on Japan from the Asiatic mainland.

Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes said this week that more American aid must be sent to the Chinese who are "holding for us the roads to Tokyo."

From sources here which can not be quoted directly, it is learned that the United States plans an ever growing offensive power in the South Pacific.

after-the-war proposals compiled by the state would include construction of a "cloverleaf over-and-under" separation of the two heavily traveled highways. Roughly, the cost was put at somewhat under half a million dollars, dependent on the site finally selected.

The program includes reconstruction of Route 42 from the Richland-Morrow county line to a point east of Mansfield and the improvement of Route 30-S which will include a section of Park avenue east.

City Engineer W. S. Statler said yesterday that he had not been furnished any preliminary drafts of the cloverleaf construction but that the plan had been under discussion for several years and undoubtedly would be a part of any postwar program laid out as a means of absorbing labor released by war industries.

The Lexington avenue part of Route 42 from South Main street to Cook road will be improved during the coming summer under plans drawn by the state highday department which has asked city cooperation.

HIGH TEACHER DIES IN CLINIC

Arthur T. Owen, 39, Stricken In Cleveland; Had Been Ill Only Since Feb. 2.

Arthur Thomas Owen, instructor at Mansfield Senior high school, died Thursday noon in Cleveland Clinic hospital, just before he was to have been operated on for a brain tumor.

Mr. Owen, who was 39, was forced to give up his teaching duties Feb. 2, and went to Canton for treatment of severe headaches. He was taken to the Cleveland Clinic hospital from there.

A resident of this city for the past six years, Mr. Owen came here from Meeker, O., to become an instructor in the vocational department at Senior high school in September 1937. He taught mathematics and science. He resided with his wife, Olive, and 11-year-old son, Tommy, at 503 Cline avenue. Born in Woodstock, Dec. 30, 1903, Mr. Owen attended Ohio State university and received his bachelor of science and master's degree there.

Mr. Owen was a member of the Central Methodist church, Mansfield Lodge No. 85, F. and A. M., the Mansfield chapter No. 28, R. A. M., Schoolmasters' club, Mansfield Teachers' association and Eta Kappa Nu, honorary scientific fraternity.

Besides his widow and son, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Asa Owen of Woodstock; two brothers, Clark of Marysville, O., and Ralph of Union City, Ind.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday at 4 p. m., in the Finefrock funeral home by Rev. R. L. Foulke and final services will be from the Milford Center Methodist church Monday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Milford Center cemetery.

MAY OFFER NEW WAR COURSES IN HOLMES SCHOOL

Classes Will Be Resumed If There's Enough Interest, Report.

MILLERSBURG—If there is a sufficient number interested in taking training in preparation for work in war industries, a course may again be offered by the Millersburg schools, Supt. W. W. Wilson announced today.

Various courses have been offered under the sponsorship of the schools, the first one beginning in March of 1941. Courses were offered almost continuously from that time until the school was closed in Dec. 1942, because of a low attendance.

It is felt that due to various courses there may be a greater interest in such training courses which will be open to both men and women.

Anyone interested in taking such training should get in touch with Wilson or call at the U. S. employment office in the court house during their office hours on Wednesday forenoons. The course, like the former ones, will be given in the Calhoun shop on West Jackson street, and will consist largely of machine shop practice.

CONTEST ENDS TODAY

MILLERSBURG—American Legion essays are due Friday, Commander W. W. Wilson announces.

All members of the upper four grades are eligible to compete. The two best essays, one by a boy and one by a girl, from each grade will be selected by the Legion Post commander.

These essays will then be sent to the county commander and compete with those from other schools in Coshocton and Holmes counties.

County winner will compete for the state contest and the winner of this from each high school will receive bonds instead of the trip to Washington which was given as an award last year. John Cuthaw of Millersburg was a state winner last year.

STAMP SALES TOTAL $328

MILLERSBURG — Bond and stamp sales in the Millersburg schools for the week ending Feb. 4 totaled $228 90, Supt. W. W. Wilson announced. Miss Storm's room led in sales, having a total of $80.60. Teachers and amounts reported by each were:

Snyder, $33 25; Carman, $20 75; Leppla, $12 15; Almendinger, $11 80; Steele, $11 70; Larkin and Smith, $10.05; Martin, $6 75; Almendinger, $5 80; Peabody, $4 75; Sanders, $4 20; Aultman, $4 00; High, $3 55; Farra, $3 40; Brookover, $3 00; Swope, $2 25; Budde, $1 85; Weimer, $1 80; Inks, $1 35

MILLERSBURG — The Laurel club members will entertain their husbands at their meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Wheaton, Feb. 18. The program will include: Response, "Prominent People of Today;" song, "America;" group singing with Pearl Bell in charge; playlet, Esther Steele; reading, Leeta Leppla; poem, Katie Schlarg; song, "God Bless America;" annual report.

MOTHER AND SON HAVE REUNION AFTER 20 YEARS

War Brings Family Together at Galion Following Long Period Apart.

GALION—The war is blamed for a good many things today, mostly bad. Very seldom is it given credit for any good, but it did bring about a reunion in Bucyrus and Galion Wednesday night between a mother and son who had not seen each other for 20 years.

This is the story. Mrs. Sylvia Winetrout of Galion, having lived in Oregon for several years after her marriage, came back to her native Crawford county. She had two sons, Lee Rodney and Kenneth. Lee was exactly two years older than Kenneth, both having the same birthday, Sept. 8. The older boy remained in Oregon with his father, while Kenneth came to Galion with his mother.

After 20 years a reunion between mother and son occurred Wednesday evening when Lee and his wife arrived in Bucyrus by bus

They had planned the meeting, and in letters to her son, Mrs. Winetrout told him how she would be dressed so he could easily identify her.

It wasn't hard for her to know her son, since he resembled his father, and looked a little like herself. Tears of joy streamed down the face of the mother as she embraced her son.

It was a first meeting, too, for Mrs. Winetrout and her daughter-in-law, and the day marked the fourth wedding anniversary of Lee and his wife

He is now 32, and was enroute to Ft. Benning, Ga., to enter Officers' Training School. He had been transferred to Ft. Benning some time ago from Camp Roberts, Calif. His wife, being a Michigan girl, had gone to Detroit to be with her people while Lee is in service. On Dec. 19, a son was born to the couple. Not quite two months old, the baby was too small to make the trip to Bucyrus. Having spent his furlough in Detroit, Lee planned to bring his wife to Galion to meet his mother, since this was on his route to return to Ft. Benning.

Plans are to have a longer and happier reunion the next time, Mrs. Winetrout stated, because her other son, Kenneth, who is also in the service as third class quartermaster at Portsmouth, R. I., and Lee, Jr., will try to be present.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S GROUP HOLDS DINNER MEET AT LOUDONVILLE

LOUDONVILLE — The February meeting of the Loudonville Business and Professional Women's club was held Wednesday evening at Weithoff's dining room. Business session was in charge of the president, Miss Elsie Hutchison. Miss Jean Powell was named to fill the unexpired term of Miss Bertha Scott, who resigned as treasurer.

Action was taken to assist with the books for soldiers and sailors project, also on the Red Cross blood donor unit which will visit Loudonville March 8 and 9. A "suggestion box" was introduced and proved interesting in that it revealed various good suggestions and constructive criticism.

The program committee included Miss Josephine Motz, Mrs. Mary Wolf and Miss Bertha Scott. Their topic was "Help Win the War With the Money You Save." The committee served generous portions of cake to all who purchased war savings stamps.

The club has been invited to a state board dinner in Columbus Saturday.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1943.

"The barefoot boy" will have even stronger argument against parental objections next summer.

Latest rumor is that Hitler's patience is about exhausted—and his Russian armies are in much the same condition.

From the west comes a report that many golf courses are reverting into farms—and one of the "midget" variety may yet have value as a Victory garden.

Anniversary of Lincoln's Birth

TODAY'S observance of Abraham Lincoln's birthday anniversary, while being brought to attention in customary ways, is overshadowed in the public mind by the momentous happenings of the present time.

In Mansfield, for instance, the emphasis on Lincoln's birthday is quite different from that of earlier years when this city's largest annual dinner-meeting was the Lincoln day banquet, sponsored by the Richland County Lincoln association, with a speaker of national prominence for each of these occasions.

It is especially fitting, however, when this nation is in a war, fighting for its very life, to recognize the day on which Lincoln was born and to give thought to the great place he holds in history.

Because of Lincoln, and the things for which he stood, there is this union of states to now stand as a great force against a common enemy. The life of this nation, which has since developed along lines of the union which Lincoln was instrumental in preserving, long ago reached a point where the idea of breaking it up, for any cause whatever, never arises. Yet each state preserves its own rights, privileges and jurisdiction under the Constitution.

There could be no more appropriate reading for today than to refresh recollection of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and to ponder again his final words . . . "that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Criticism Barred From Radio

AN ILLUMINATING remark was made by Walter Winchell, newspaper columnist and radio commentator, in connection with censorship imposed on his radio broadcasts to eliminate criticism of senators and congressmen.

Quoting Winchell in an interview at Miami, Fla.: "I'd like to say this—which I can't say on the radio any more—the fathers and mothers of this country who have sons and other kin fighting and dying to preserve freedom of speech and press should realize that the war is already lost back home.

"The only thing left is the newspaper. I hope the newspapers will fight harder for the freedom which the radio has so meekly surrendered."

This means, as may not be generally realized, that the radio is under direct government control, through licensing processes of the federal communications commission, and is thus liable to revocation of license and subject to whatever rules may be set up by interested agencies of government.

Both newspapers and the radio have voluntarily agreed to refrain, during wartime, from publicizing anything in the way of military information that might be helpful to the enemy, but it is not accepted as a proper function of censorship that criticism of employes or agencies of government is to be banned, either in print or speech.

Drew Pearson, writer of the Washington Merry-Go-Round, which appears in the News-Journal, has also drawn government fire as a result of some of his comments on the radio, and it appears, as Winchell says, that "the only thing left is the newspaper," if fair and frank discussion of any controversial subject is desired. In Germany, Italy and Japan the newspapers, as well as the radio, dare say only what they are TOLD to say. Unless there is departure from the safeguards set up by the United States Constitution such a condition cannot come about in this country.

Puerto Rico In Guinea Pig Role

SOMETHING is taking place in Puerto Rico which should be brought to the attention of every American citizen. As an island territory of the United States, it is being used as a guinea pig for social experiments at the hands of socialist politicians working under cover of emergency war powers granted by the people of this country to their government for the efficient prosecution of the war.

The war is being fought to preserve and re-establish the principles of representative government and individual rights. But in Puerto Rico the same officials who pay lip service to these war aims have proceeded to ape Hitler. As the New York Times recently pointed out, at the insistence of American government officials the legislature of Puerto Rico in the last two sessions has: "(1) provided for government ownership of more than half the island's sugar lands: (2) turned all the sugar mills into public utilities, subject to regulations of the public service commission; (3) authorized the government to purchase and operate all forms of communication: (4) provided for government ownership of all means of transportation; (5) created a government bank in which all insular revenues may be deposited; and (6) authorized the formation of a development company through which the government may engage in any form of private business."

The people of Puerto Rico have futilely opposed the destruction of private ownership. American courts have condemned it, pointing out that the emergency powers of government were never intended for such application. But the process continues. Puerto Rico is fast becoming a socialized state under jurisdiction of the United States.

Superiority In Air Fighting

WHENEVER American fighters come in contact with the foe, enemy losses seem always to be higher. Secretary Stimson has just released figures on plane losses, which show that three Axis planes have been destroyed to date for every one of ours. In 1942 the enemy lost 987 planes to our 309. In December, 1942, the totals were 326 known losses for the Axis to 98 of our own. If probable losses were added, the record would be even better.

This trend cannot continue indefinitely without bringing disaster to the Axis powers.

The cobbler who "sticks to his last" may be required to stick even longer when the shoe shortage really gets going.

'Beginning of the End' Foreseen

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S speech pronounced the doom of the Axis but at the same time he gave a glimpse of some of the difficulties ahead before the day of unconditional surrender.

Previously Churchill had said that the present stage of the war is only the "end of the beginning." Now, he clearly implies the next nine months offer hope of the beginning of the end. He and President Roosevelt, he said, have a complete plan of action and plan to carry it through in the remaining months of 1943.

The chief difficulty to be overcome, the prime minister said, is the submarine campaign. This has been and will continue to be a severe drag on the war operations of the United Nations, whose communication and supply lines girdle the earth.

Churchill did not minimize the seriousness of the U-boat menace but neither did he over-emphasize it. The submarine, he conceded, may delay the enemy's doom but cannot avert it.

His most encouraging statement was the revelation that the rate of destruction of submarines increased 50 per cent in the last three months over the preceding nine months.

That is an indication of progress in Allied moves to improve methods of fighting the submarine, rather than relying too much on the passive method of seeking to build ships faster than they can be sunk.

THE FIRST and principal land operation of the Allies, it may be inferred from Churchill's speech, will continue to be in North Africa, under American command. The appointment of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower over two high ranking British generals in the Mediterranean theater is significant of the complete unity of purpose reached by the prime minister and President Roosevelt at their Casablanca conference.

Churchill confirmed what military observers have suspected for several weeks, that the Tunisian campaign is going to be on a larger scale and last longer than had been expected.

However, he left little doubt about the outcome. Churchill revealed for the first time the Axis strength in Tunisia, placing the figure at probably 250,000, which is much higher than previous estimates.

However, the prime minister revealed that the Allies had landed 500 000 men in northwest Africa, giving them two-to-one superiority. In the air he placed Allied superiority also at almost two to one.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Feb. 12, 1923.

Annual dinner-meeting of Richland County Lincoln society was held at Elks home, with Judge Robert M. Wanamaker, of the Ohio supreme court, as speaker. More than six hundred men attended.

Young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mann, 29 South Mulberry street, was injured when struck by automobile while crossing street.

"Fully fifty" automobiles were stalled on Ashland hill because of coating of ice on roadway.

James E. Lemley, 62, died at his home, 323 South Main street.

Miss Zona Loveland and John Gossom were married at St. Peter's parsonage.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bishop, 43 Woodland avenue.

Miss Mabelle Koppes resumed as stenographer in Roderick Lean company office after five weeks' illness.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Abraham Lincoln, 16th president of the United States, was born on this date in 1809, in Hardin county, Ky.

Dave Boone Says:

AN INDIANA Republican in congress has come out for pre-sliced bread and, as trivial as it seems in times like this, he'll get a lot of support from the public. We spend millions on war information departments but not one person in a thousand knows just how the war effort was helped by making mom slice the bread after she gets it home.

This Indiana man says more man and woman power hours than you can shake a stick at are lost by this business of making the women slice it. Well, it didn't seem to be much of a job in the old days, but I've seen some women bungle the task so lately that it almost looked like deliberate sabotage.

I understand Hitler is still true to that pledge he would never remove his military uniform until he had won the war, but my inside information is that he discarded his shoes, socks, belt and hat in Russia this week to lighten him up so he could run faster.

Teen-Age Criminals

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I PASSED on to you, the other day, some quotes from Francis Sill Wickware's article in the February Cosmopolitan. The one about "Our Teen-Age Crime Wave." It was pretty appalling, anyway you look at it. Gangs of 12-16 year old youngsters, both sexes, organized for every kind of crime—arson, robbery, torture, rape and murder. Actual records taken from every big center in America. With the kids all having the final laugh. And the world blaming the war working mothers for the tragic mess.

I couldn't deny the records—I have been watching them pile up myself and I deplored the necessity which drives the mother of a growing family to war work—although how she is going to live decently on a soldier husband's $50-a-month basic war allowance unless she does work is beyond me. But then, with an utter disregard for my health, I stated that I did not believe the working war mothers did half as much harm to the younger generation as the lazy, silly, aimless mothers who make tramps of our children in their mutual search for hoodlum fun.

I said that and I mean it. But I'm certainly getting plenty of comebacks for those forthright remarks.

"What do I mean by these insulting remarks to the mothers of America," snap indignant dowagers. "It is a recognized fact that American mothers are the best, the most modern and most charming on earth. They are not a lot of old fogies such as we had in the 80's.

The modern mother shares her life with her children. She prides herself on looking and acting as young as her high school daughter. She can 'cut a rug' as well as her soldier son. And now you take her to task because she tries to make her home an attractive social center for the young people whose mothers are doing defense work. I never heard anything so cruel and ungrateful."

Alright, ladies, go ahead and have a good hard cry if you wish, but I still don't believe that you are the paragons you rate yourselves. Nor do I believe your motives are as undefiled as you think. Empty homes are a pitiful sight and lonely youngsters should make the angels weep. But the plain fact is that, even if those war mothers weren't working, their youngsters should be studying at home when school is out, running chores, digging Victory gardens or helping Mom around the house.

In short they should be learning a little of that discipline and cooperation which made their parents real men and women, back in the despised 80's. They didn't like it then. Youngsters of any era are never going to admire an organized program. But they'll be bums if they don't. And that's exactly what thousands of pin-brained women are helping them to be now.

Youth will always be a rebel and a gypsy. The human race wouldn't be worth a hoot if this were not so. But that's no excuse for Mom to get down and play craps with them or to snicker at the restraints which it is her solemn duty to exercise and exemplify in her own maturity.

But "being mature" is the last thing which many of you sisters want to be. You aren't turning your home into Social Centers For Lonely Little Ones. You are turning them into Juke Box Joints to gratify your own empty heads and hearts.

Behind every group of juvenile delinquents there are one or more irresponsible adults who have applauded their recklessness and social defiance. The homes of the 80's may have been stuffy, and usually were. But they were rarely bawdy. And when they were, the decent citizens of the town took the delinquent parents in hand.

Never has America owed more to its women, married or unmarried, than it owes today. Never have those women shown greater courage, intelligence and sacrifice than they are showing today. All honor to them! But, oh, for a few old fashioned mothers who have the courage to raise hell when their piffling parasitic neighbors seize upon this chance to make hoodlums of their decent boys and girls.

FDR Enlists Old Dealers and GOP In Opposing War Mobilization Bill

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The vote on the war mobilization bill to revamp the jittery War Production Board and put certain army-navy production under civilian control was one of the most significant in ten years of the Roosevelt administration.

This vote, which transferred the bill from the education and labor committee to the military affairs committee, saw the president appealing to Republican leaders—Senators McNary, Bridges, Lodge — to defeat his old New Deal friends. It saw him falling back on Old Deal Democrats who have bitterly attacked him — Byrd of Virginia, Reynolds of North Carolina, Tydings of Maryland — to get their support. And the men Roosevelt slapped down in this vote were those who had gone down the line for him when the going was really tough—on labor legislation, on neutrality revision, on social reform—men like Pepper of Florida, Thomas of Utah, Kilgore of West Virginia, Murray of Montana, Truman of Missouri.

PEARSON

The vote left a lot of sour faces in the Senate and may mean a gradual new line-up. For some New Dealers now declare they are finished with the "rubber-stamp" act.

Brass Hat Ire.

HERE is the inside story of what happened. The war mobilization bill had been carefully prepared by some of the president's best friends. They held months of hearings, wrote the bill after diligent, painstaking study. It set up machinery to referee the chronic battling between the army and navy, maritime commission and Mr. Jeffers as to whether critical materials would go to airplanes, rubber factories, escort vessels, etc.

In settling this battle, the bill proposed to take away some production powers from the army and navy, put them in the hands of a civilian umpire. This aroused terrific brass hat ire.

So the army-navy lobby got into full swing. And two weeks ago, young Republican Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, whom the president tried to defeat, told a closed-door session of the military affairs committee how certain high-up army-navy officials had appealed to him. They had asked him to try to have the war mobilization bill referred to the military affairs committee where it could be bottled up.

Ordinarily the bill would be referred to the senate education and labor committee, which had heard witnesses before, and knew the story. But Lodge said army-navy officials were afraid the education and labor committee would report the bill favorably, then it would reach the senate and might pass.

Thomas Blows Up.

HEARING this, mild-mannered Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah interrupted angrily. Thomas is ranking member of the military affairs committee, also chairman of the education and labor committee.

"In other words," he said to Lodge, "they told you that the bill must be transferred to this committee, and taken out of my hands, so it can be crushed?"

Lodge made no attempt to deny this. Senator "Happy" Chandler of Kentucky broke in to say that Economic Stabilizer James Byrnes, was manipulating against the bill backstage, and had telephoned Chandler.

There was so much commotion in the next few minutes that those present can't remember all the details. But for the first time in his 10-year career in the senate, placid Senator Thomas blew up. He began with some sulphurous comments on the executive branch of government "dictating" to congress and ended with a scorching phillippic on the blunders of army and navy procurement officials in providing equipment for the armed forces.

"I have always been faithful to the army and navy and have carried the ball for them on important war measures, including the dependents' allotment bill," the Utah senator stormed.

Star Lobbyist Byrnes.

WHAT especially irked him was that he wasn't even consulted about administration plans, but had to be informed by Republican Lodge.

Somebody at least could have called me up and told me what was going on," he exploded. "After all, I'm chairman of the committee that has been handling the bill."

Lodge was disturbed by the outburst, later phoned Byrnes, urged him to placate Thomas. Byrnes called Thomas' office several times, but couldn't reach him. The stabilization boss also was on the phone most of the morning of the day the senate voted on the "transfer" resolution, whipping Democrat senators into line to smother the "New Deal" bill in the anti-New Deal military affairs committee.

Later Senator Thomas confided to a friend: "I've been an administration wheelhorse for 10 years, and have had to take a lot of abuse in the newspapers on labor bills. But this double-dealing is the payoff as far as I am concerned."

Farmer's Diary

RISING WATER TABLE

OUR gravel road became almost impassable last week. During the three years we have lived along Honey creek, ruts have never been deep until now. Looking down the road from the slope, the surface of the highway much resembled a furrowed field. To avoid miring down in the center, the dirt had been plowed up by cars to within a few inches of the ditch.

One unfortunate, who happened to drive his front wheels into two ruts and let the rear ones slide into a different two, came over to the barn to borrow a long-handled shovel to get himself out of a dilemma. Ruts are fearful things.

When a cold north wind blew, and the watery, furrowed surface began to freeze, that was something else. A truck came along an hour before daylight. I heard the axles screech and the housings groan, and shivered to think what might happen to rationed tires and gasoline. Then a bread truck passed, on its regular morning run—the driver hunched and perspiring as he steered. I started westward for the village.

I saw some places where frozen, jagged ruts were too narrow for my tires. I tried to cross to the other side of the road and bounced up and down behind the wheel, like a rubber ball. I went up once when the top was coming down, and flattened my hat upon my sparse head of hair. When I reached town, my left front wheel was staggering. The bearings dropped out and the hub was split.

While I waited for the damage to be repaired—not so difficult as it sounds, with a junk yard handy—I pondered on the reason for such bad roads this year.

Three years ago, the soil of our valley was dry. Rain and snow had been scant for some years. A neighbor dug a cellar and found the subsoil as dry as if it had been under shelter. Wind blew the dry clay loam in clouds about the landscape. The sun was shaded by the dust of the upper air. Streams and springs went dry, and farmers hauled water for their livestock. The water table of this part of the country seemed to be sinking fast—too fast.

No longer. Last year was wet; this winter has brought deep snows that melted and soaked down. The soil has become thoroughly saturated, even in the roadbeds.

Our local road repair crew has already worked three days—hauling gravel, rolling and scraping. Our home on Honey creek is back on the map again, but with the next freshet, other spots will doubtless heave and sink. The water table has come up—we farmers are glad of that!

Teamwork Counts In Aerial Attacks; Spirit of Killing Animates Air Fighters.

A FORWARD AIRDROME IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA (By Wireless)—It is hard for a layman to understand the fine points of aerial combat as practiced at the moment in North Africa. It is hard even for the pilots themselves to keep up, for there are changes in tactics from week to week.

We will have some new idea and surprise Germans with it. Then they'll come across with a surprise maneuver, and we will have to change everything to counteract it. But basically, at the moment, you can say that everything depends on teamwork. The lone dashing hero in this war is certain to be a dead hero within a week. Sticking with the team and playing it all together is the only guarantee of safety for everybody.

ERNIE PYLE

Our fighters go in groups with the bombers, ranging the sky above them, flying back and forth, watching for anything that may appear. But if they see some Germans in the distance nobody goes after them. That would be playing into the Germans' hands. So they stick to their formation above the bombers, making an umbrella.

The Germans has two choices—to dive down through them, or to wait until somebody is hit by flak and has to drop back. Then they are on him in a flash.

When that happens the fighters attack, but still in formation. Keeping that formation always and forever tight is what the flight leaders constantly drill into the boys' heads. It is a great temptation to dash out and take a shot at some fellow, but by now they've seen too many cases of the tragedy of such action.

The result is that this war doesn't have many individual air heroes. A team may be a composite hero, but not an individual.

One group leader told me: "If everything went according to schedule we'd never shoot down a German plane. We'd cover our bombers and keep ourselves covered and everybody would come home safe."

THE fighter pilots seem a little different from the bomber men. Usually they are younger. Many of them were still in school when they joined up. Ordinarily they might be inclined to be more harum-scarum, but their work is so deadly, and the sobering dark cloud of personal tragedy is over them so constantly, that it seems to have humbled them. In fact I think it makes them nicer people than if they were cocky.

They have to get up early. Often I've gone to the room of my special friends at 9:30 in the evening and found them all asleep.

They fly so frequently they can't do much drinking. One night recently when one of the most popular fighter pilots was killed right on the home field, in an accident, some of them assuaged their grief with gin.

"Somehow you feel it more when it happens right here than when a fellow just doesn't come back," they said.

When they first came over here, you'd frequently hear pilots say they didn't hate the Germans, but you don't hear that any more. They have lost too many friends, too many roommates.

NOW it is killing that animates them. The highest spirits I've seen in that room were displayed one evening after they came back from a strafing mission. That's what they like to do best, but they get little of it. It's a great holiday from escorting bombers, which they hate. Going out freelancing to shoot up whatever they see, and going in enough force to be pretty sure they'll be superior to the enemy—that's Utopia.

That's what they had done that day. And they really had a field day. They ran onto a German truck convoy and blew it to pieces. They'd laugh and get excited as they told about it. The trucks were all full of men, and "they'd fly out like firecrackers." Motorcyclists would get hit and dive 40 feet before they stopped skidding.

Two Messerschmitt 109s made the mistake of coming after our planes. They never had a chance. After firing a couple of wild bursts they went down smoking, and one of them seemed to blow up.

The boys were full of laughter when they told about it as they sat there on their cots in the dimly lighted room.

I couldn't help having a funny feeling about them. They were all so young, so genuine, so enthusiastic. And they were so casual about everything—not casual in a hard, knowing way, but they talked about their flights and killing and being killed exactly as they would discuss girls or their school lessons.

Maybe they won't talk at all when they finally get home. If they don't it will be because they know this is a world apart and nobody else could ever understand.

THIEVES TAKE SHERIFF'S CAR

HOLBROOK, Ariz. — (U.P.) — Thieves stepped into an automobile parked in front of a Holbrook drugstore and sped away.

Before the machine was found later beside a Texas highway a "pickup" order for the car had been broadcast to peace officers throughout the west.

Perhaps most of the officers looked a bit more carefully than usual for that particular car—but most certainly they chuckled a little when they first heard the description of it by radio.

It belonged to Lafe S. Hatch, Navajo county sheriff.

The peanut acreage of American farmers has been more than doubled in the past year.
